TOLD PRESIDENT OF NOMINATION

Roosevelt Accepts Party Leadership at His Home.

CEREMONY IS SIMPLE

Issues of the Campaign Forcibly Brought Out by the Speakers.

APPLAUDED BY NEIGHBORS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 27.—Under ideal conditions of weather and amid surroundings that made the affair seem more like a family house party than an official ceremony, Theodore Roosevelt was formally notified this afternoon that he was the choice of his party as his own successor in the White House.

With a score of relatives and intimate friends before him and the committee representing all the states and territories of the Union flanking them, the president, mounted on a chair, accepted the nomination in a speech full of characteristic phrases, while the gentle breeze swayed the Stars and Stripes draped around the eaves of the porch behind him and the auditors applauded with rapturous fervor almost his every sentence.

Oyster Bay did itself proud in the matter of decorations and din. An old farmer from Hicksville drove into town with a small brass cannon fastened to his truck. Long after the last carriage conveying the guests toward Sagamore Hill had disappeared up the road the salutes boomed forth.

Nearly every residence between the station and the foot of Sagamore Hill was elaborately decorated and on the lawns pictures of the president, draped with small flags and surrounded by small pennants of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club were to be seen at frequent intervals.

Road Decorated With Flags.

At every fourth telegraph pole along the route taken by the procession large American flags had been strung across the road, and at the entrance to the president's grounds an arch of flags had been built. Every detail of the arrangements seemed provided for, and not an untoward incident occurred to mar the program. The carriages drove at a smart pace to Sagamore Hill, where they deposited their passengers at the west porch.

President Roosevelt's speech was characteristically forceful and direct in argument and replete with epigrammatic phrases. Prosperity may be said to have been the keynote of the address, while the achievements of the Republican party in statesmanship at home and abroad were depicted with the touch of a skilled hand. His satirical references to the Democratic party aroused laughter and applause.

As the president concluded his speech Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, chairman of the notification committee, grasped his hand and congratulated him cordially. George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican national committee, then extended his congratulations. He was followed by all the members of the notification committee and the guests. The speech of the president will be circulated extensively in the campaign, as, aside from the letter of acceptance which he will issue in a few weeks, it will be his only public utterance during the campaign.

Ceremony Was Simple.

In accordance with the wish of the president, the ceremony was made as simple as possible. The formal notification of the action of the convention was made on behalf of the committee by Speaker Cannon. The attendance of the committee was notably large, regrets being received from only three.

In all about 125 persons were present at the ceremony. Aside from relatives, the assemblage included personal and political friends of the president, officials of the Republican national and state organizations, the pastors of Oyster Bay churches, and neighbors of the president. On account of the isolation of Sagamore Hill and the lack of carriages a greater number was not invited.

Cordial Reception to Cannon.

As Speaker Cannon stepped upon a chair standing near the veranda railing he was given a cordial reception. While Mr. Cannon read his speech President Roosevelt stood at his right hand, giving close attention to the address. Mr. Cannon was interrupted frequently by applause.

President Roosevelt shook Mr. Cannon's hand heartily at the conclusion of his speech and then mounted the chair to deliver his address in response. He was given so cordial a reception that it was quite a minute before he could proceed.

After the informal reception which followed the address Speaker Cannon suggested that all the visitors assemble on the lawn at the foot of the veranda steps "in order that they may have their respective shadows secured ere the substance fade." As the president descended the steps to face the photographer he called for Gov. Pardee of California and W. S. Simpson of Texas to stand near him. These two, with Speaker Cannon, Chairman Cortelyou, Gov. Odell of New York, Cornelius N. Bliss and Frank S. Black, were grouped about the president as the photographs were taken.

A buffet luncheon followed and the guests were served by the president's children and his nephews and nieces.

Tomorrow morning President Roosevelt will start for Washington. It is not unlikely that he may return to Oyster Bay in two weeks.

The notification speech of Speaker Cannon and acceptance of the president will be found on Page 8.

UNCLE SAM IS BOUND TO ACT

Formal Protest Against Russian Seizures Is Made to State Department.

CONCERNS ARABIA

United States Senator Mitchell Represents Owners of the Vessel's Cargo.

WANTS INDEMNITY OF RUSSIA

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Washington, July 27.—The state department has finally received a formal protest against the action of the Russian navy in seizing American goods, and as the result of its preliminary study of the law and precedents governing the subject it is prepared to act energetically and promptly. This protest relates to seizure of an American cargo on board the Hamburg-American steamer Arabia, bound from Portland, Ore., for Hongkong, China.

United States Senator J. H. Mitchell of Portland, Ore., telegraphed the department a statement of the conditions under which the Arabia carried out this cargo. Mr. Mitchell stated that he represented the Portland Flour Milling Company, which had shipped on the Arabia for Hongkong 99,000 sacks of flour worth about $100,000. He declared that this flour was in no sense contraband, for it was not destined for Japan, and it was part of the normal trade of the company, and was not a war order. Mr. Mitchell requested the department to take the necessary steps to secure indemnity and satisfaction for the owners of the flour, and also to protect legitimate neutral trade from such serious interference as these attacks by the Vladivostok squadron.

The officials decline to say what course they intend to pursue save for a declaration that there would be no inconsiderate action; that the whole subject of interference with American trade by belligerents in the present war will be considered, and each protest that may be forwarded will be part of a uniform and consistent policy to be followed by the department.

The case of the Knight Commander has not yet been made the subject of a formal protest, and therefore will not accompany the Arabia case if the latter is to be presented at once to the attention of the Russian government.

PORTLAND, ORE., July 27.—United States Senator John H. Mitchell, speaking of the protest sent by him to the state department on behalf of the Portland Flour Milling Company, said today that he had made it a vigorous one because of the serious import of the questions involved. He has requested the state department to advise him of the conclusions reached by the department in its negotiations with the Russian government, and of the action taken by this government in the matter. Senator Mitchell has been advised that similar protests will be made by New York attorneys on behalf of the German owners of the Arabia.

RUSSIAN VIOLATION OF WORD OF HONOR

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, July 27.—Thomas Gibson Bowles (Conservative) will ask Premier Balfour in the house of commons tomorrow if the government is aware that the Russian armored cruiser Dmitri Donskoi, after being allowed to take 500 tons of coal at Port Said, and after her captain had given his word of honor that he would proceed at once to Cadiz, remained off Port Said and stopped and examined six vessels which were about to enter the canal, and a few days later repeated the stoppage off Alexandria.

Mr. Bowles also wants to know what steps the government will take to prevent belligerent ships securing at British ports "coal to be used in operations of war."

The British government is sending instructions to Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador to Russia, today to energetically protest against the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander by the Russian Vladivostok squadron. It is known that Premier Balfour and his colleagues have decided to demand that the fullest reparation shall be made by Russia, or measures will be taken to follow up the diplomatic demands.

That the British government regards the sinking of the Knight Commander as a breach of international law was confirmed by Premier Balfour in the house of commons this afternoon.

A long meeting of the defense committee took place today under the presidency of Premier Balfour, at which the attorney general, Sir Robert Finlay, was present. The national defense committee of the house of commons was added to the list of the committees of the house in March of last year. The idea of the government was to make its duty to survey as a whole the strategic military needs of the empire, to deal with the complicated questions and to revise from time to time the committee's previous decisions.

PACKERS WILL NOT GIVE IN

Overtures of State Arbitration Board Fail to Bring Peace Nearer.

FREIGHT HANDLERS GO OUT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Chicago, July 27.—"We had an agreement with Mr. Donnelly's organization and the allied trades, which they have failed to live up to, and under the circumstances we do not care to make any further agreements with them."

This is the statement which was signed by the representatives of the packers and handed to the members of the state board of arbitration tonight at the end of a conference held at the request of the state board.

While from their statement it would appear that the packers are opposed to meeting the strikers again on any terms, such is not the case. At the last conference between the strikers and the packers the latter informed the union leaders that any time they expressed a desire to live up to the original arbitration agreement signed a week ago today, which provided for the reinstatement of the striking butchers inside of 45 days and for all grievances to be submitted to arbitration, the packers would be willing to renew the agreement. The contention of the packers is that this agreement is still in force.

Notwithstanding today's failure to bring the contesting parties together, another attempt, it was said tonight, would be made tomorrow. James H. Walker, a grain broker on the board of trade, is the man who proposes to do what the state board of arbitration failed to accomplish. Mr. Walker was in consultation tonight with the leaders of the allied trades unions and several of the packers. He stated tonight that it was his firm belief that before tomorrow night he would be able to announce that his mission had been a success.

An unexpected complication arose tonight, when the freight handlers employed at the stock yards station of the Chicago Junction railroad, went on strike. The men gave as their reason for quitting work their unwillingness to handle meat turned out by non-union workmen in the packing plants. While the number of freight handlers employed at this station is only 40 men, still their decision to join the sympathetic strike is a severe blow to the packers, as the greater portion of the dressed meats shipped from the yards to the local trade passes through the hands of these men. Should non-union men be engaged to take the places of the strikers, a strike of the union switchmen may follow. With the switchmen out it would only be a matter of a short time until the strike would spread to the other employes of the railroad.

When the union teamsters went on strike the Chicago Junction railroad was depended on by the packers as a means of supplying their downtown customers. The strike tonight, however, leaves the packers without an outlet for supplying the city trade, unless non-union men can be obtained to take the place of the strikers, or non-union teamsters be employed to make city deliveries. An attempt to deliver meat with non-union men would be harassed by strike sympathizers from the time they left the yards until they reached their destination. Two years ago, during the union teamsters' strike at the stock yards, non-union men were employed to make deliveries under police protection and some of the worst riots in the history of Chicago took place.

"Police rule" was today declared in the

(Copyright, 1904, By New York Herald Co.)

PANAMA, July 27.—Under date of July 20 The Gazette's correspondent in Bogota cables:

Congress met today, with Joaquin Velez, president of the senate, and Concha Perez-Soto, speaker of the house; Lewis M. Cairo represented Panama.

The senate adopted a resolution unanimously protesting against the separation of Panama, and refusing to recognize in any way, shape or manner the declaration of independence made on November 3, 1903. A protest, couched in energetic terms, against the intervention on the part of the United States, was also passed.

The house passed, on first debate, a motion declaring the annulment of the existing treaties between the United States and Colombia, and canceling all diplomatic and consular exequaturs.

There is great excitement in Bogota.

ROOT WANTS TO GET OUT.

Makes Another Attempt to Decline Nomination for Governor of New York.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(Special.)—Elihu Root today made another attempt to prevent his nomination as the Republican candidate for governor of New York this fall. This time Mr. Root has written a letter to Gov. Odell saying that he is not and under no consideration can be a candidate for governor. Men who talked with him tonight, however, said that there was little doubt that Mr. Root would be forced to accept the nomination.

CONVICT IS PARDONED 10 MINUTES BEFORE DEATH

TRENTON, N. J., July 27.—(Special.)—George Robinson, serving three years for burglary, died in the state prison hospital of tuberculosis yesterday 10 minutes after a pardon for him reached the institution. He pleaded with the physicians to have the pardon hurried to the penitentiary that he might not die a convict. Just before the dissolution a messenger hurried down the hospital corridor, the doctors nodded in silence and a piece of paper was pushed into Robinson's bony hands. He was too weak to read the contents of the scroll, but smiled his gratitude and died with the crumpled pardon clasped tightly to his breast.

WILL CUT ORDERS FOR STEEL RAILS BY HALF

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—(Special.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will cut its order for steel rails to be delivered in 1905, to probably about half the amount taken this year. Two hundred thousand tons were ordered for this year. It was the intention to do a large amount of new work and lay heavy rails at many points on the system, but the retrenchment policy has knocked this out. Last year President Cassatt gave out the contracts for the rails before he started on his vacation. This year, it is said, no orders will be given until next month, or possibly later.

May Be Due to Perdicaris.

TOULON, July 27.—Under orders from Vice Admiral Gigon, the armored cruiser Kleber and the third class cruiser Galilee sailed for Tangier tonight. It is suggested the orders are the outcome of the representations made by Ion Perdicaris.

TAGGART'S HOTEL A GAMBLING DEN

Owner's Only Excuse Is That the Games Are Played on the "Square."

AS OPEN AS MONTE CARLO

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Indianapolis, July 27.—The fact that Thomas Taggart, who was elected chairman of the Democratic national committee in New York yesterday, was compelled to reply to the charge that he is pecuniarily interested in the gambling establishment which is conducted at French Lick Springs has caused considerable comment here and surprise is expressed that the question was lugged into the chairmanship campaign.

There has never been any denial that gambling is carried on at the French Lick resort, and that the games of poker at French Lick are interesting, not only because of the size of the stakes, but by reason of the men who sit in the game. Gambling has been carried on unmolested for years. In fact, faro, poker, roulette and other games of chance are so common and are conducted so openly without hindrance by the authorities, that they have long ceased to be a matter of comment.

The French Lick Hotel Company was organized over a year ago. Taggart was elected president and was placed in direct charge of the resort. Taggart and his partners discussed the gambling question before the springs were opened under the new management and it was agreed that men visit such resorts for recreation; that games of chance would be indulged in privately by the guests regardless of the rules of the hotel, and it was determined not to countenance in private what was tabooed in public, but to permit all the usual games of chance to be run openly, care being exercised that they should be conducted on the "square."

Taggart, when mayor of this city, made successful war on the gambling fraternity and there was less of it under his administration than had ever before been known in the city. It was reported that he discouraged gambling in this city to enhance the patronage at French Lick.

MOSQUITO BITE IS FATAL TO MERCHANT

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—(Special.)—Blood poisoning, caused by the bite of a mosquito, ended the life on Tuesday night of William B. Toland, at his cottage in Pitman Grove, N. J. Mr. Toland was the head of the firm of Toland & Hance, wool merchants of this city. Two weeks ago Mr. Toland was bitten on the ankle by a mosquito. He scratched the bite until the skin was broken. The next morning he put on a pair of new stockings and it is not certain whether the insect introduced the poison directly or only gave an opportunity for the dye from the new sock to get into the wound. Whichever it was, blood poisoning soon developed and erysipelas followed.

DECISIVE FIGHT NOW IMMINENT

Japanese Preparing for Desperate Russian Stand Near Hai-Cheng.

OUTPOSTS IN TOUCH

Gen. Zaronbaleff Sends Detailed Account of Ta-Tche-Kiau Fight.

RUSSIAN LOSS WAS 600 MEN

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

London, July 27.—Cabling under date of July 26, the Niuchwang correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"One hundred and fifty Japanese cavalry, who entered over night, had orders to return to Ta-Tche-Kiao, but remained until morning at the urgent request of the British and American consuls.

"The Japanese have not pursued the fleeing enemy, as they desire to cooperate with the first army in a decisive battle between Hai-Cheng and Liao-Yang, which, even in the opinion of Russian officers, will result in a Russian defeat and will terminate the campaign."

ST. PETERSBURG, July 27.—A telegram from Gen. Kuropatkin, received today, confirms the occupation of Ta-Tche-Kiao by the Japanese July 25, and adding that a Japanese division had moved on Hai-Cheng.

A telegram from Gen. Kuropatkin, filed yesterday, refers to a suspension of the Japanese advance. A Japanese division was then holding Ta-Tche-Kiao, with outposts several miles northward of the main body. Gen. Stakelberg's and Gen. Zaroubaleff's corps were at Hai-Cheng, but the rear guard of the Russian army was half way between Hai-Cheng and Ta-Tche-Kiao. The Japanese, it was then believed, were probably halting, as usual with them after each advance, to recuperate and intrench.

Within Speaking Distance.

Two Japanese divisions were nearing Simouchen, which bears the same relation to Hai-Cheng as Teng-Chi does to Ta-Tche-Kiao. These forces were also stopping and throwing up earthworks eight miles southeast of Simouchen, which is strongly held by the Russians. Skirmishers from either side were within speaking distance.

The Japanese continue to menace Liao-Yang's communications by concentrating troops at Sikseyen, but no further advance had been made yesterday toward Liao-Yang or Mukden.

The consummation of the Japanese plan for the occupation of Niuchwang, while long anticipated, is nevertheless recognized as conferring a great advantage on the Japanese generals, giving them a new base from the sea by railroad, river and high road, for a northern movement.

Through General Kuropatkin, Emperor Nicholas has received a dispatch from Lieut.-Gen. Zaroubaleff, commander of the Fourth Siberian army corps, giving the details of a 15-hour Japanese assault made on his forces, who occupied a position at Nandaline, on the heights south of Tsian-Chia-Tsia.

This is the engagement recently referred to in these dispatches, which began by the Japanese turning first the left and then the right flank of the Russian forces near Ta-Tche-Kaio and culminated in a terrific Japanese attack on the Russian center, ultimately compelling the Russian troops to evacuate Ta-Tche-Kaio and retreat to the north.

The battle, according to Gen. Zaroubaleff, began at 6 o'clock in the morning of July 23 with an artillery duel and lasted until sundown. Zaroubaleff estimates his own losses at 20 officers and 600 men killed or wounded. Among the latter is Col. Auspensky, commanding the Tomsk regiment. The Japanese losses, Zaroubaleff believes, were greater than the Russian.

After recounting the details of the artillery duel, Zaroubaleff says:

Japanese Infantry Charge.

"At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the massing of the Japanese infantry suggested that they intended to force our position at the village of Tsin-Chia-Tsia, which was held by the Barnaoulsk regiment. About five or six batteries were engaged at this time and their fire increased toward evening.

"At 7:30 o'clock the Japanese fire was at its height and in the last rays of the setting sun the enemy delivered his attack on the Barnaoulsk regiment. The latter, reinforced by three battalions under the command of Col. Debrotin, valiantly swept back the enemy, making four bayonet charges.

"At 9 o'clock in the evening the cannonade ceased, but the rifle fire continued until late in the night. We retained all our positions.

"After the fight it was ascertained that our 18 battalions had been engaged with at least two Japanese divisions, supported by an overwhelming number of batteries. The general extent of the position measured nine miles. In these circumstances I did not think it advisable to resume the action on the following day and resolved to retreat toward the north. The withdrawal was effected in perfect order.

"Our losses have not yet been ascertained, but they are estimated at about 20 officers and 600 men killed or wounded. Among the wounded is Col. Auspensky, commanding the Tomsk regiment.

Tributes to Gallantry.

"I must testify to the remarkable firmness displayed by all the troops in my command during this difficult action, which lasted 18 hours. The Siberian regiments, who had met the main Japanese attack, in particular distinguished themselves by their unwavering endurance. Not an inch of ground was yielded despite the enormous numerical superiority and the repeated attacks on our center, where the fighting on four occasions was conducted at close quarters, with the bayo-

FOUR FURNACES FOR SOUTH SIDE

Jones & Laughlin Steel Company Begins Million Dollar Extension.

GROUND IS BROKEN

Will Have Largest Talbot Open Hearth Steel Producing Group in the World.

ADDS 325,000 TONS CAPACITY

The immediate expenditure of close to $1,000,000 by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company in increasing its open-hearth steel capacity has been determined upon. Work has already been started in the excavation for the foundations for four new open-hearth steel furnaces which will add 325,000 tons per year to the company's production.

The Iron Trade Review of Cleveland, in announcing this in its issue of today, will "scoop" the other trade papers. The Review will say:

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, Pittsburgh, has broken ground for the erection of four additional Talbot open-hearth steel furnaces which will increase its steel producing capacity 325,000 tons annually. About two years ago one furnace of this type was installed and the output at present averages from 1,600 to 1,700 tons a week. While there are other furnaces of this design in operation in this country and abroad, the furnace installed by this company is the largest ever erected, and with the four additional vessels this will be the largest Talbot steel producing group in the world.

About a year ago the officers of this company decided upon the erection of additional furnaces of this type, but owing to adverse trade conditions postponed their erection. At present this company has Bessemer steel producing capacity amounting to 900,000 tons annually, and together with its 10 basic open-hearth furnaces and Talbot furnace the total steel producing capacity amounts to 1,275,000 tons per annum. When the new Talbot furnaces are in operation in about a year the total annual producing capacity will be increased to 1,600,000 tons.

The new furnaces will be located at the South Side plant, adjoining the one now in operation. At the Soho furnace plant, which is now idle, new blowing engines are being installed, and other extensive repairs are under way. As soon as these are completed the stack will be blown in. The new furnace added to the Eliza group is having an average output of 450 tons daily.

Unusual interest is felt in this announcement because the trade conditions in the iron and steel industry have not been for a year past so favorable as had been hoped. The confidence displayed by the Jones & Laughlin company, which has been noteworthy because of the excellent judgment shown in its management, is considered one of the best indications that the immediate future of the steel industry here is a good one.

Absolute denial from all interests concerned was given yesterday to the reports of an intended consolidation of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company and the Crucible Steel Company with the United States Steel Corporation or a merger of any one of the three with either of the others, as reported yesterday.

WALBRIDGE FOR GOVERNOR.

He Is Nominated on First Ballot by the Missouri Republicans.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., July 27.—Cyrus P. Walbridge of St. Louis was nominated for governor of Missouri tonight on the first ballot by the state Republican convention. The platform adopted follows closely the features of the national party principles and takes a firm stand against boodleism in the state.

Chairman Burton, in a short speech, paid a touching tribute to former Senator Vest, who lies at death's door, and a telegram of sympathy was sent by the convention to Mrs. Vest.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(Special.)—There is strong probability that Judge D. Cady Herrick of Albany, will get the nomination for chief judge of the court of appeals to succeed Judge Parker. While no definite announcement has been made, it is understood in the conferences of the Democratic leaders in this city that Judge Parker would resign his judicial place before August 8, so as to permit the nomination of his successor in time for election this year.

SIX STEAMERS WILL CARRY $1,500,000 OF WAR MATERIAL

REVIEW OF GUARD THIS AFTERNOON

Governor's Inspection Occurs. Artillery Arm of the Service to Be Improved.

PURCHASE OF FIELD REVIVED

By JOHN P. COWAN.
(Staff Correspondent.)
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CAMP COL. M. S. QUAY, GETTYSBURG, PA., July 27.—The addition of two troops of cavalry and the betterment of the artillery arm of the service in the National Guard of Pennsylvania is a suggestion for organization and improvement which is receiving a boost here in the Second brigade and among the officers of the governor's staff. A new signal corps is likely to be provided for next year, and then, with a two-battalion regiment of cavalry and more artillery, Pennsylvania will have an ideal army, so the general officers say. The success of this year's encampment, together with the compliments which have been heard from regular army officers, have united all friends of the state guard to offer their efforts for its numerical increase, as well as to urge the use of the best equipment and to devote more time to target practice.

The people of Western Pennsylvania will be particularly interested in this because it is a vindication of Battery B, which has made excellent progress under Capt. W. T. Rees and has been assured heroic support from officers who are high up in the administration of affairs of the guard. It means also a feather in the caps of the new cavalrymen in Troop F of New Castle. The suggestion has been made in several quarters for the formation of a regiment of cavalry and the idea is favorably commented upon in all quarters.

Gen. Chambers McKibben of the United States army, conversing with several members of the staff, said: "In modern warfare there is no more important arm than artillery. The days of fighting with the sword are virtually at an end and the constant improvement which is being made in field pieces requires soldiers to be trained in the use of the latest models of artillery armament. No more important improvement can be made to the state militia than to add to the equipment of its gunnery."

Today was a busy one at camp. For the first time since the troops arrived here, the sun came out fair and warm, and the parade ground was lined with spectators. The First brigade took the field shortly after sunrise and spent the entire morning in the arduous duties of inspection, and 14 men were prostrated. One soldier in the Sixth, during a double-quick march, fell upon his bayonet and lacerated his forehead. While the First was standing under the watchful eye of Gov. Pennypacker the Second brigade men were subjected to rigorous drills in preparation for the big demonstration tomorrow, which will begin with inspection early in the morning and in the governor's review at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Tomorrow will witness one of the largest crowds that ever gathered at a Gettysburg encampment. Special excursions will be run on all the local railroads and a large number of visitors will come from Western Pennsylvania. Thirty thousand persons are expected. The hotels are filled and the residents of the little town are opening their houses for the accommodation of the guests of the guardsmen.

Maj. C. C. Wiley of the Eighteenth regiment was division medical officer of the day. After a round of the camp he stated that the health of the men was remarkably good. The cases of malaria he attributed to causes which originated before the patients left home. The others in the hospitals are rapidly recovering from the slight complaints they suffered, and few will be absent from duty at the big review. Members of Battery B, who plan night frolices, were taught a lesson today which will do much toward establishing discipline in that command. Six of the boys stole out of camp after lights had night and ran the guard lines to visit friends in the Eighteenth regiment. Their absence was discovered and Lieuts. Ryall, Purviance and Sundy mounted their horses and rode down from Seminary Ridge in pursuit of the revelers. They were captured and escorted back to camp and placed in the guard house.

The battery's inspection will occur earlier on Friday morning than was anticipated and it was necessary today to brush up in preparation for that event, and the period was taken from the guard house and compelled to clean the guns. Then they were returned to the guard house.

Fire broke out last night in one of the tents in the rear of the Fourteenth regiment and Lieut. Maurice E. Barr, who was officer of the guard, called out the regiment, formed a bucket brigade and prevented the flames from spreading to the adjoining tents.

The story of the probable purchase of Gettysburg battle field for a permanent encampment site for the guard has been revived. The site is looked upon favorably by the majority of the officers, but the price at which the ground is held is said to be in the way and the only course open is for the state government to enter condemnation proceedings.

The Knights of the Exalted Order of Scot of the Fourteenth regiment tonight presented Maj. Harry Fowler with a sword, the presentation speeches being made by Adjt. McGovern and Dr. A. J. Barchfeld. This afternoon the officers and men of the Second battalion presented Maj. Fowler with a complete horse equipment.

Some regimental commanders object to the playing of "Dixie" on the sacred ground of Gettysburg, and "My Maryland" likewise may be heard no more in the camp.

DRIVER BADLY INJURED.

Horse Fell and Two Others Passed Over Him on Wooster Track.

WOOSTER, O., July 27.—(Special.)—The races this afternoon drew good patronage and the sport was the finest ever seen in the city. Guy Red, in the first two heats of the 2:18 pace, broke the track record held by Finley Hoy. John C. Welty, owner of Silk Line, protested Guy Red, claiming that the horse had been started out of his class, as he could show by the secretary of the National association.

Quite a bad mixup occurred in the last heat of the 2:18 pace, when Miss Emmett fell and turned over on her back. King Daniel and Dearolven, passing over horse and driver. G. W. Lane of Newark, O., driver of Miss Emmett, sustained very grave internal injuries. The first race was won by Guy Red, best time 2:17, the second by Judge McKinley, best time 2:21¼; the third by Teddy, best time 2:18¾, and the fourth by Almeron, best time 2:19¾.

FIGHT AT TA-TCHE-KIAO AS TOLD BY KUROKI

He Says That the Japanese Casualties Were Only About 800.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

TOKYO, July 27.—In a daring night attack against a Russian force estimated at five divisions with 100 guns, Gen. Oku succeeded in driving the enemy from their strong line of defense south to Ta Tche Kiao.

Advancing on Sunday Gen. Oku found a superior force confronting him, and that a heavy artillery fire from the enemy was checking his men. He thereupon decided to hold the positions he then held, and to attempt a night surprise. This was successful, the Japanese troops hustling the Russians into retreat to Ta Tche Kiao. The Japanese had only 800 casualties. No estimates of the Russian losses are given.

The Takushan army did not participate in this fight, it being located to the east of Ta Tche Kiao. Moving to the northwest, this Takushan force fought and won a separate action on Friday, July 22, at Pan Ling, losing 31 men. The commander of the Takushan army charged that the Russians violated the Japanese flag which they hoisted in an attempt to deceive the Japanese, after which they fired a volley into the Japanese ranks. The Russians left 14 dead at Pan Ling.

The Japanese began the advance against the Russian positions south of Ta Tche Kiao on Saturday, July 23. On this date the vanguard occupied positions in the vicinity of Chui Cha Tun, to the southeast of Ta Tche Kiao, developing the position and strength of the enemy. The Russian line was through the hills south of Ta Tche Kiao, extending almost due east and west of the railroad. The position of the enemy was fortified. The strongest point was at Tai Ping mountain, to the southeast of Ta Tche Kiao, and here the heaviest force had assembled. The Russians had two battalions of artillery posted near Chatenganon, due south of Ta Tche Kiao and ahead of the main line.

The Japanese deployed to the westward from the vicinity of Chu Hia Tun and, confronting the Russian line to the east of the railroad, began the advance at an early hour on Sunday morning. At 9 o'clock the Japanese right had reached a bluff a little less than two miles from Tai Ping mountain. In the afternoon the Russian batteries, posted in various positions on the heights, opened with vigor, shelling the advancing Japanese line.

The Russian fire prevented a general advance and determined Gen. Oku to decide to await the advance of darkness to deliver a night assault. Two divisions of Russians occupied the Sai Cheng road, and Gen. Oku took the precautionary measure of engaging this force with artillery. The Russians replied with artillery, and the duel lasted until darkness.

Suddenly at 10 o'clock Sunday night, the entire Japanese right was hurled against the first Russian position east and west of Tai Ping mountain, and easily captured it. At midnight the second position was attacked, and by daylight the Japanese occupied the eminence to the east of Shan Chia Tun. The Russians were in retreat toward Ta Tche Kiao.

At 7 o'clock Monday morning the Japanese seized Chen Shi Shan without resistance, and pursued the Russian force toward Ta Tche Kiao.

UNCLE SAM BOUND TO ACT

between the British and Russian consuls it was announced that the Russian flag on the Malacca would be replaced by the British at 6 o'clock this evening.

SUEZ, July 27.—The British steamer Formosa was released today by the Russian consul and the prize crew landed cheerfully. The crews exchanged salutes. The commander of the Smolensk said he was searching for the British steamer Idomeneus from Clyde, July 2, for Yokohama, which had left Suez 24 hours after the Formosa. He feared she had escaped, but it appears likely that she has since been seized. The Formosa sailed today to continue her voyage eastward.

Turkey Is Satisfied.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 27.—The Russian statement to the effect that vessels of the volunteer fleet hereafter will not be permitted to operate for war purposes is regarded in Turkish official circles as settling the question of their passage through the Dardanelles. It is held that as they will only have the status of merchantmen there is no reason to refuse them permission to traverse the straits as heretofore. The British cruiser Lancaster is still off the entrance of the Dardanelles.

Shipping at a Standstill.

TOKYO, July 27.—Foreign and domestic shipping is today practically at a standstill, and it is possible that on account of future uncertainty it will be only partially resumed when the present raid of the Russian Vladivostok squadron comes to an end. The sweeping list of articles declared by Russia to be contraband of war renders almost every vessel approaching Japan liable to seizure.

The Gaelic Is Warned.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—The Occidental and Oriental Steamship Company's steamer Gaelic, Capt. Brown, now en route from this port to Japan and China, has been warned of the presence of the Vladivostok fleet in the Pacific. She is carrying a cargo of merchandise valued at $833,600 and her treasure box contains silver bullion valued at $247,800.

Making for French Port.

PERIM, RE DSEA, July 27.—Two Russian vessels, supposed to be the volunteer fleet steamers St. Petersburg and Smolensk, passed here this morning bound for Jibutil, French Somaliland. They showed no colors.

DEADLY STORM SWEPT CHICAGO

Two Men Killed and Woman Injured by Lightning Which Started Many Fires.

TORRENTS OF HAIL AND RAIN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, July 27.—Two persons were killed by bolts of lightning, many fires broke out and a number of houses were struck during a hail and rainstorm that swept across the city shortly after noon. Darkness enveloped the city during the storm and in the downtown district the clouds shut out the light to such an extent that artificial light was necessary during the afternoon in all the buildings.

THE DEAD.

JOSEPH THOMPSON, assistant foreman for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, instantly killed by lightning at Seventy-third street and Stony Island avenue.

JOHN CRONIN, special policeman, instantly killed by lightning in front of his home, 7143 Green street.

THE INJURED.

MRS. MICHAEL LYNAUGH, 648 Armitage avenue, rendered unconscious by shock and fright when her home was struck by lightning; rescued by firemen and revived.

The Church of the Visitation, Fifty-fifth and Peoria streets, was struck by lightning that partly wrecked the structure. All through the southern part of the city reports of damages by lightning and rain and hail were made. Firemen all over the city were busy responding to alarms to put out fires caused by the lightning.

Garfield boulevard was covered with a coating of hail stones to a depth of two inches in some places. For 15 minutes the rain and hail came in torrents. Hundreds of window panes were shattered.

DECISIVE FIGHT IMMINENT

net, which the Japanese could not withstand.

"The list of the men meriting rewards for their share in this glorious fight will follow. In the meantime, I beg to mention the great valor of the Tebolsk and Tomsk regiments, of two battalions of the Semipalatinsk regiment, and in particular of the Barnaoulsk regiment, which covered itself with glory. The conduct of all our batteries, which remained in action for 15½ hours under heavy fire, was beyond all praise.

"I am unable to give the exact number of losses sustained by the Japanese, but I venture to say that these losses were greater than ours."

Northern Japanese Army Moves.

SINTSINTIN, MANCHURIA, July 27.—Simultaneously with the advance from the south the Japanese from the north have pressed forward toward the west, as if to strike the railroad south of Mukden.

TIENTSIN, July 26.—Gen. Kuroki and Gen. Nogi are endeavoring to form a junction so as to cut off Kuropatkin's army between Liao-Yang and Mukden.

JAPANESE INTERPRETER IS GRATEFUL FOR HIS RELEASE

CARLSBAD, July 27.—Mr. McCormick, American ambassador to St. Petersburg, has received from Kobe, Japan, a letter from Matsutare Todani, one of the interpreters on board the Chicago Daily News dispatch boat, Fawan, who was arrested at Yinkow April 1, by the Russians, on the charge of being a spy, and who was subsequently released through the efforts of Ambassador McCormick. The writer abounds in praises of the Almighty and in expressions of the warmest gratitude to the ambassador for "freeing him from the hands of the dreadful Russians." The interpreter encloses his photograph as a souvenir.

Rise In War Risk Rates.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The local marine insurance companies report a sharp rise in war risk rates during the past week, as a direct result of the action of Russia in holding up British and German merchantmen at sea. The war risk rate demanded today by the majority of the big local companies is 1 per cent.

DISCORDANT ELEMENTS TOGETHER FOR A DAY

Democratic National Committee and Tammanyites Meet at Parker's Home.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ESOPUS, N. Y., July 27.—Members of the Democratic national committee made an informal call on Judge Alton B. Parker today and found him entertaining leader Charles F. Murphy and others prominent in Tammany hall. Former Senator David B. Hill and Mr. Murphy joined hands on the Rosemount veranda and others who have not been political friends for years put aside their differences for the day at least. Discussions of political questions, both national and state, were entered into by the visitors.

The coming of the national committee was heralded, but no announcement had been made of the proposed visit of the Tammany delegation. Several of the committeemen expressed surprise at finding the New York men at Rosemount, but Mr. Murphy made no effort to avoid meeting the Parker campaign managers.

It was agreed that the committee will get together informally in New York tomorrow and that the opening of western headquarters will be considered.

The chairmanship of the executive committee of the New York state Democratic committee is another matter said to have been brought up. The Tammany leader expects to serve on this committee himself under the resolution to enlarge it. Senator McCarren is the ranking member and by precedent would serve as chairman, but it is understood that Murphy is trying to have McCarren deposed. Tammany men also talked in opposition to Cord Meyer, chairman of the state committee, and it is believed here that there is a plan on foot to unseat him. At the same time August Belmont and Perry Belmont were engaged in talking Mr. Meyer for the gubernatorial nomination.

OKLAHOMA NOMINATIONS.

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., July 27.—F. Frank Mathews of Greer county was nominated for congress by the territorial Democratic convention, a resolution repudiating the clause in the Hamilton statehood bill, fixing the capital at Guthrie until 1910, was passed.

The Populist territorial convention, which was also in session here, rejected by an overwhelming vote the offer of fusion made by the Democrats, and nominated A. T. Straughen of Lincoln county for congress, by acclamation.

PACKERS WON'T GIVE IN

stock yards district. Beginning this afternoon, no one was allowed to traverse the streets in the vicinity of the stock yards unless good cause could be shown for doing so. This to a great extent put a stop to the picketing by the strikers, which had been going on all day. When night came the police were complete masters of the situation.

A rain and hail storm which broke over the stock yards district during the afternoon caused much confusion in the live stock pens. With not an adequate number of drivers to handle the animals under ordinary conditions, when the hail began to fall the frightened animals ran about the yards completely beyond the control of the inexperienced drivers. It required nearly three hours to bring order out of the chaos. During the excitement several persons were seen to escape from the yards with live sheep in their arms. These men were said to be friends of the strikers who took advantage of the opportunity to secure a little fresh meat.

An incident of the day was a fire which broke out in Swift's lard refinery in the center of the stock yards. It was caused by the burning out of a motor and was subdued after raging for an hour. Louis F. Swift said the loss would be only a few thousand dollars.

Clarence Hall is the first victim claimed by death as a result of the stock yards strike. Hall is dead at the Continental hospital. Last Tuesday he, with R. F. Keating, his employer, an ice dealer, was driving past a crowd of rioters. Two shots were fired, one of which struck Keating, passed through his leg and struck Hall. The police never ascertained who fired the shot.

Kitty English, forewoman in the sewing department of Swift & Co.'s plant, was mobbed and badly hurt by a crowd of girl strike sympathizers.

President Donnelly said tonight that if the butcher workmen in New York did not strike, that their charter would be revoked.

LOCAL MEAT SITUATION IS DULL AND UNCHANGED

The western meat strike is still being felt a great deal in Pittsburgh and surrounding territory. Butchers are doing very little business and the demand continues so small that retailers in some of the suburbs, as well as those in the city, declare they may have to close shop for a while. Aside from the scarcity incident to the strike and the high prices that have resulted, there is the warm weather factor. Much less fresh meat is eaten at this season of the year.

RUSSIANS ARE FILTHY.

Japanese Have to Clean Up the Towns Abandoned by Them.

GEN. KUROKI'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD, Via Fusan, July 26.—(Delayed in Transmission.)—Reports from the Russian lines agree that much fever and dysentery exist among the soldiers. It is the opinion that much of the sickness is caused from neglect of sanitary precautions in the Chinese towns occupied.

The first work of the Japanese on entering towns which the Russians have abandoned is to clean thoroughly the streets and houses. Many of the houses are found in a most filthy condition, and are infested with swarms of flies.

The report that a number of Russian guns were captured on July 19, is untrue.

Tomorrow and the Half of Saturday

END OF THE JULY SALE.

Please make a memorandum that this sale is for tomorrow and that none of the goods will be ready today. We complete stock-taking all over the store on Saturday, and it has been more rigid than usual—more things thrown out to be sold for a mere nothing.

Thursday, July 28, 1904.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of those of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the many summer resort hotels published on page 14 of this issue.

Judge John Weiss of the Dauphin county court has decided the law authorizing the appointment of inspectors of weights and measures to be unconstitutional. As his opinion differs from those of the legislature which passed the act, Gov. Pennypacker, who approved it, and Attorney General Carson, the case will be appealed to the supreme court. The provision of the constitution which is held to prohibit the creation of these offices is not so clear as it might be. There is room for the splitting of legal hairs that has been done on the subject, and the appeal to the supreme court is proper, since it will settle the matter finally.

Tangier will be policed by French soldiers, the sultan of Morocco having agreed that this step is necessary to secure the safety of foreign residents. This outcome is the contrary of representations made by Ion Perdicaris, the American citizen recently kidnaped by Raisuli. Mr. Perdicaris informed the French authorities that a small force at Tangier would be useless, but if Raisuli was given control the peace of the province would be assured. Evidently the French government has not been impressed by the Perdicaris argument, probably concluding that it originated with Raisuli, himself, who naturally does not desire a permanent guard of foreign soldiers interposed between him and the wealthy foreign residents at Tangiers. Ransoms would be apt to become infrequent.

The Colombian congress is not yet ready to admit the independence of Panama, and on the first day of its sitting the senate passed a resolution refusing to recognize Panama's declaration of independence, and entering a protest "against the intervention of the United States." The house passed a motion declaring the annulment of all existing treaties between Colombia and the United States and canceling all diplomatic and consular exequaturs. But however much the Colombians may rant, the established facts cannot be overruled. The Colombians were given every opportunity to act fair. The Isthmians had the right on their side. Their separation is accomplished, and Colombia's best course would be to accept the situation and learn its lesson of good common sense and honesty.

Many of our contemporaries use the spelling Newchwang to designate the town recently occupied by the Japanese, at the mouth of the Liao-Ho. They do this on the assumption that this spelling conveys the sound of the Chinese word, but it does not. The authorized spelling on the maps is Niuchwang, which leads to correct pronunciation in continental Europe. The sound would be indicated in American dicionaries by the spelling "Ne-oo-chwang," the "ch" being pronounced as in the word "chest." The occidental world is chiefly indebted to the French for the spellings of Chinese names, that being the language of diplomacy, and when the rules for French pronunciation are kept in mind, together with the fact that there are no "silent" syllables in Chinese, the maps become intelligible.

Often the want of presence of mind causes the great disasters that startle the world. This was the case in the General Slocum horror, according to testimony given before the federal commission investigating the holocaust. One of the deck hands saw fire smouldering in a barrel. He picked up a bag of charcoal, threw it at the barrel, knocking it over and giving the fire the air it needed to cause its spread. No man in his right senses would have done that. The fact that hundreds of lives were endangered was what caused the man to "lose his head." It would have been easy to throw the barrel overboard, but he never thought of that. For the moment he was crazed by fear and did the thing that ended in disaster. It is this want of mental control that spreads terror and panic in a crowd against which there seems to be no safeguards possible. But this fact does not lessen the responsibility of the owners of the vessel who did not provide proper life saving appliances. It tends to aggravate their negligence, for they should have known what to expect in just such a case and been the better prepared for fire and panic.

The Notification Speeches.

The speeches accompanying the formal notification of President Roosevelt are upon the same high plane reached by ex-Secretary Root in his convention address. A record is submitted by which the party is content to stand or fall. It is a record of such distinguished achievement that it is a matter of some difficulty to give it adequate statement, but in the speeches all the points are covered with succinctness and force. Since Mr. Root's speech was delivered the Democratic party adopted its policy of evasion as regards the financial issue and this furnished a new topic which is prominent both in Chairman Cannon's speech and in President Roosevelt's reply.

Both speeches are remarkably terse and pointed. In Chairman Cannon's speech the leading place is given to protection and the currency system. He pointed out that a policy under which we have become the greatest exporting nation in the world while paying higher wages to labor than any other nation in the world, is denounced by the Democratic platform as a system of robbery. Referring to Judge Parker's telegram, Mr. Cannon asked "I wonder if it ever occurred to him that if his vote and support for his party's candidate in 1896 and 1900 had been decisive we would now have the silver standard." Admitting that he has experienced a change of heart and that he will now try to reap where he has not sown, if perchance he should be elected by forcing together discordant elements "there would be no harmonious action in legislation or administration that would benefit the people, but doubt and discontent would everywhere distress production and labor." Instead of this region of doubt and double-dealing the Republican party offers the region of assured certainty. Chairman Cannon summed with great force this issue presented by the effort of the Democratic party to avoid the financial issues.

In his reply President Roosevelt emphasized the same points, directing attention to the fact that effective government comes only as the result of the loyal co-operation of all branches of authority. The present attitude of the Democratic party is finely characterized as a request to the people to trust their present promises in consideration of the fact that they intend to treat their past promises as null and void. Making within a brief space a complete survey of public interests President Roosevelt set forth the Republican position in detail. In fact his speech may well be decribed in his own words as to what a national platform should be—"precise and concise, incisive and decisive." No issue is avoided, no principle is compromised, but the note of courageous devotion to duty rings throughout. The party does not deprecate the judgment of the people but invites it. "During the seven years that have just passed," said President Roosevelt in conclusion, "there is no duty, domestic or foreign, which we have shirked; no necessary task which we have feared to undertake, or which we have not performed with reasonable efficiency. We have never pleaded impotence. We have never sought refuge in criticism and complaint instead of action. We face the future with our past and our present as guarantors of our promises; and we are content to stand or to fall by the record which we have made and are making."

In addition to the speech of yesterday President Roosevelt will later furnish a formal written acceptance in which he will deal at length with the issues of the campaign. The written acceptance of a presidential candidate has taken rank in our politics as supplementary to the party platform, if needed it does not take the place of it as being an authoritative expression of intention whereas the platform is an expression of party sentiment. Ex-Secretary Root's convention address, the notification speeches and the letters of acceptance of the candidates, will, together with the platform, constitute the greatest political testament ever delivered to any people, adoption of whose doctrines will keep the nation in the path of peace, honor and prosperity.

Miss Roberson Trims Parker.

Considering all the facts in the case we think that Miss Abigail Roberson of Rochester, N. Y., has decidedly the best of it in her tilt with Judge Alton Brooks Parker. Incidentally we note while the decisions made by Judge Parker have been carefully scanned for campaign material it was left for a woman to find a decision by which she has clearly convicted Judge Parker of inconsistency.

Some years ago Miss Roberson was made indignant by discovering the fact that her photograph had been enlarged and lithographed in life size and was being used for advertising purposes. Although her name was not made public her picture was and it was recognized by her friends and others, as the likeness was posted conspicuously in stores, saloons and other public places. Miss Roberson applied for an injunction restraining such use of her likeness and one was granted. The case was appealed and finally carried up to the court of appeals, which by a bare majority, Judge Parker giving the casting vote and writing the opinion, dissolved the injunction on the ground that there was no right of ownership in one's likeness entitled to the legal protection sought. The opinion excepted from its effect any publication under similar circumstances which was in its nature libellous, but held that the mere publicity was not actionable.

Recently Judge Parker himself has been getting a dose of distasteful publicity. Mrs. Parker has had to leave her home to avoid the annoyance of ubiquitous photographers snap-shooting her movements. The judge's own patience was worn out and he announced that he had put up with promiscuous photographing of himself and family as long as he was willing to do so. He went on to say: "I reserve the right to put my hands in my pockets and assume comfortable attitudes without being everlastingly afraid that I shall be snapped by some fellow with a camera."

Upon reading this announcement in the newspapers Miss Roberson saw that the time had come when she could trim Judge Parker and she proceeded to do so with admirable neatness and grace. She addressed him a communication which is a masterpiece of sarcasm. She reminded him that he has no such right as he asserted and in support of that statement quotes his own decision. Noting the reservation made in the decision as regards libellous publicity she remarked, "it is not apparent how your likeness in the attitude suggested could be libellous, at least, not so long as you kept your hands in your own pockets." The letter concluded by saying:

I am forced to the conclusion that this incident well illustrates the truth of the old saying that it makes a lot of difference whose ox is gored. I sympathize with Mrs. Parker in her annoyance, but I know of no reason why you or your family have any rights of the nature suggested which do not equally belong to me. Indeed, as between us, I submit that I was much more entitled to protection than you. If you will reread your opinion, you will discover that you laid down very clearly therein that you have no cause for complaint against these gentlemen armed with cameras. Naturally, the camera fiends feel licensed to annoy yourself and family in the manner which you yourself suggested, at least within the borders of this state.

We do not find the slightest flaw in this logic. Miss Roberson has gagged Judge Parker with his own decision. And we note further that even a chief justice cannot take away from a woman her privilege of having the last word.

Britain Makes Demands.

While the British government has exhibited extreme self-restraint under the irritation of repeated Russian seizures of British vessels, the gravity of the situation cannot be concealed. After careful investigation of the sinking of the Knight Commander by Sir Claude MacDonald, British minister at Tokyo, it is learned the foreign office at London has instructed Ambassador Hardinge to demand full reparation and apology. In the previous case of the Malacca, seized in the Red sea, the British ambassador at St. Petersburg was instructed to "make representations" to the Russian government. In this case he is told to make a demand, which is vastly different.

In the case of the Malacca, Great Britain objected to the seizure by vessels which had passed the Dardanelles as merchantmen, and Lord Lansdowne, British minister for foreign affairs, frankly reminded Count Benckendorff, Russian ambassador at the court of St. James, that Britain had a treaty of alliance with Japan. At the same time no demands were made. Russia hastened to give assurance that the Malacca would be released and indemnities paid, avoiding the question concerning violation of the treaty of London. Thus the incident passed without serious friction or any compromise of honor.

The Knight Commander cannot be released, because it has been sunk. Sir Claude MacDonald learns that it carried no contraband, according to British interpretation. There is no question about the status of the Vladivostok cruisers. They cannot be dealt with as pirates or privateers upon any presumption. But their acts can be construed as hostile, or the acts of warfare. Hence the demand for full reparation and apology, the latter including salutation of the British flag. While the British government makes no threats, Russia will readily understand that it must decide quickly whether it will defend its naval commanders in the course they have pursued, or admit they may have exceeded their legal powers and parley for delay in settlement. There is no likelihood of a prompt confession of wrong and immediate reparation.

Meantime the direct interest of the United States in the matter is made more apparent by the protest filed with the state department against the seizure of the Arabia. The protest recites that the American cargo, consisting of flour, steel, machinery and general merchandise, was not contraband of war, nor consigned to the Japanese government. Similar protests may be filed on behalf of the American shippers whose consignments were sunk with the Knight Commander. The United States government has a clear right on their behalf to enter protest to the Russian government and to insist upon payment of damages for all neutral cargo owned by Americans sunk with the vessel. The government at Washington is proceeding very cautiously. It is looking up all of the authorities on the subject before taking any action. But when action is taken there will be no recession. The United States is seeking no quarrel and will make no unjust demands, but its just demands, if it has any to make, will be supported frankly and fearlessly to the end.

One St. Petersburg newspaper, the Svelt, wants to tackle the whole of Europe and America. In "doping out" Russia as a winner, the editor proves that "the pen is mightier than the sword."

Even the Red Lion hotel must give way to the progressive spirit of Pittsburgh. It outlived its usefulness long ago, and only the memory of the past remains.

With local butchers able to furnish all the meat needed, Pittsburgh can "sit tight" and watch the western folks fight it out.

If Chairman Taggart is a gambler, as alleged, he will be wise enough not to make any big wagers on the success of Judge Parker.

So Murphy has called on Judge Parker after all! But that does not prove that the Tammany tiger is thoroughly tamed.

A party of German tourists, after spending 36 hours in Pittsburgh, think they have seen the town. But they haven't.

Every recent move of Russia has shown that she knows she is beaten.

President Roosevelt knows all about it now.

Talked of in Gotham

By ALEXANDER DOODS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—Men prominent in both political parties are at two equally prominent hotels here tonight; but the luster of their greatness is dimmed by the blaze of glory in Fourteenth street. Murphy and Judge Alton Brooks Parker have shaken hands, and Tammany's tiger's face is streaked with tears of joy. These have been anxious days for the rank and file of the striped cat, for since the convention the ordinary clay of the organization did not know whether to applaud or bewail the aloofness of their leader, Charles F. Murphy. There is divers stories in circulation of an enormous "barrel" in the present campaign, and "Murph's" offishness about congratulating the presidential nominee of the Democratic party, sent their hopes for part of the funds a glimmering. But "he" went to Esopus today and made his manners to the chieftain and tonight Tammany is happy. That is about all the rank and file look for, in Tammany, the happiness that is begotten through some cinch upon a money proposition.

There was quite a contrast among the three gatherings. At the Fifth Avenue hotel was a party of men who stand high in the walks of life, and who had just returned from notifying Theodore Roosevelt that he had been chosen by the Republican party to lead its hosts to victory this coming fall. At the Hoffman house quite late a number of dust-covered policians drifted in from Esopus while every ward heeler in the metropolis drifted into Tammany to see "wat's doin'."

Banners Spread to the Breeze.

With the notification day came the Roosevelt and Fairbanks banners, stretching their great lengths across many of the downtown streets. Each bear the portrait of the leaders of the party and bear the legend "Prosperity and Protection" with the name of the assembly that is responsible for placing them in their lofty positions. Mounted on heavy rope netting with hand-painted likenesses of the two standard bearers, these banners represent quite an outlay of money. The net which is of a special weave must be made by hand to insure it against any flaws. The portraits to get a good likeness must also be the work of more than a commonplace artist, so that upon the whole the expenditure runs in the hundreds of dollars. New York is said to have a practical monopoly upon the manufacture of these banners and the nets are made by the seafaring jobbers along the water front.

The Election Test That Miscarried.

The New York Herald, in view of a discussion by many of the metropolitan newspapers in respect to Wall street being against Mr. Roosevelt for president adopted a poll of the stock exchange to discover the sentiment among the brokers. The first day's results showed a considerable majority in favor of the continuance of Mr. Roosevelt in office, but today's result is more of a clincher than the first. Out of a total of 447 brokers who cast their ballot, 827 were for Mr. Roosevelt and but 114 for Parker. As there are but 1,000 members of the stock exchange and there are still 429 brokers to be heard from out of which number Mr. Roosevelt needs but 54 to give him a majority, it is pretty safe to say that it was the minority that has been doing the shouting.

Bim the Button Man Makes His Appearance.

It is strange to relate, but with the banners came "Bim the Button Man." Every campaign since the fall that Blaine and Logan had their likenesses joined together by a ribbon of blue upon a little flag, Bim has paraded Broadway with a tray of campaign emblems. He always leaves his change lying in full view of the public, and if the amount be small tells the passersby not to let an old man starve. If it is plenty, he tells them to get in the "swim" with the others. He said today that honors were about even between the demand for Roosevelt and Parker emblems which are but round glazed buttons with portraits of the nominees. In view of the extensive claims that Tammany is making for the city, Bim's early bulletin of "breaking even" is a damper on the landslide story.

The Two Tom Taggarts.

Thomas Taggart, the new national chairman of the Democratic committee is a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hdye upon a miniature scale. Here in New York he is to be found almost any day now, seated in the Hoffman house lobby, talking politics with his Democratic henchmen. He wears a collar and a "biled" shirt and the days of French Lick, that gave him a rough and ready reputation with all in Southern Indiana seem forever past. There are plenty of "sports" here, however, who intimate that the stiff collar must rub Tom's neck and that there'll be a breaking out before the new Democratic chairman shakes the dust of the effete east from his feet. One thing must be said in Mr. Taggart's favor: He admitted to the national committee that there was gambling at his hotel in French Lick.

Never Promised Posies to Lulu.

Fred C. Whitney who claims to still have a mortgage upon the services of Lulu Glaser, actress, has filed his answer in court to the suit of Charles B. Dillingham who seeks to have the well-known Sewickley girl freed that she may appear as the star in his "A Madcap Princess." It is charged that Whitney promised Miss Glaser the largest basket of flowers in New York on the night she appeared in the new attraction, but in his court answer he denies this and says he had plans for her to appear this October. The judge will hear the arguments of the contending managers tomorrow in a Brooklyn court.

No Wonder They Bite So Hard.

After many months of experimenting Dr. Alvah H. Doty, health physician of the port of New York, announces that he has discovered a simple compound that will destroy the "disease propagating anopheles and the more numerous, if less dangerous, culex." He means mosquitoes. The destroyer of the twin-screw lumpproducer of the Jersey coast, is nothing more or less than a mixture of lime and sulphate of copper. It will kill a swarm of mosquitoes in 36 hours, and its chief recommendation is that it is poisonous to mosquitoes alone. It can be placed in the pools where the pests germinate, and will not only rid it of the mosquitoes but also purify the water, so that it can be used by man or beast without fear of contracting disease. The only drawback to the discovery is the fact that it cannot be used about the house as it stains everything it touches to a brilliant green.

What a lot of questions one can ask with only an occasional answer.

But it must be borne in mind that we are young folks yet, comparatively speaking, and not presumed to know everything.

It is claimed that the first letter written in English has but recently been discovered. It was written to Sir John Pelham in London by his wife in Kent, and sent by a messenger. It bears date of March 22, 1339.

If you have read old English history you will remember that up to the beginning of the reign of Edward I. all letters, private or otherwise were written in Latin, but after Edward ascended the throne French, which had been the spoken language of the court from the time of the conquest, began to be used in written correspondence. In the reign of Edward III. the English language, in pursuance of an act of parliament, was made the language of legislation.

* * * * *

There are lots of funny things to be found in old English history—at least things that would be quite out of form in this age. Words were few then, but enough for all practical purposes. Things were called by their right names, and if a fellow had anything to say he plumped it out in a few plain words. If that didn't suit the other fellow a controversy followed in which blows took the place of words.

Controversies in which fists furnish the arguments are much shorter than those in which wordy arguments are used.

A thump or a blow, or a knockout was thought to be proper on various occasions. The principal ceremony at the creation of a knight was a blow on the ear with the naked fist, and a sharp rap across the shoulder with a sword. John of Salisbury tells us the blow with the naked fist was in use among the ancient Normans; by this it was that William the Conqueror conferred the honor of knighthood on his son Henry. It was afterward changed into a blow with the flat of the sword on the shoulder of the knight.

June brides are coming back home now with tales of joy or sorrow, as the case may be.

And as the honeymoon has been, so the course of married life will probably be.

In all times, at least all Christian times, there has been a lot of superstition and other nonsense associated with marriage, and it will be a long time before it is all gotten rid of.

If those who indulge in this sort of foolishness only knew the origin, or the meaning of it, they might not care to be caught at it.

Considerate brides of today who wear as many pairs of garters as they have bridesmaids in order to bring luck to the young women, are unconsciously doing homage to the beautiful Joan, countess of Salisbury, who while dancing with his majesty, King Edward III. of England, in the thirteen hundreds, was overwhelmed with confusion as her garter slipped from its position and fell to the floor. Instantly the gracious monarch stooped and with a deep obeisance handed the circlet to its blushing owner, to the immense amusement of surrounding courtiers.

The king, distressed at the embarrassment of the fair lady, turned to the smiling nobles with the rebuke: "Honi soit qui mal y pense." "Evil to him who evil thinks," and then and there declared that he would make the garter the symbol of high honor and good fortune.

To carry out this promise he instituted the order of the garter, an order of such high merit that it has been the dream of noble knights down the ages to wear a little below the knee of the left leg its insignia, a narrow band of blue velvet edged with gold. The motto is inscribed on the velvet in letters of pure gold, of which metal are also the buckle and pendant of exquisite workmanship.

Speaking of the kings of England recalls the observation of a careful student of English history to the effect that while monarch and titled folks were very particular about some things, they accepted dirt as a matter of course, thinking nothing of wearing a shirt a whole month, or even longer, if it were not ruffled.

It is said that Beau Brummel won whatever of distinction and fame he ever had by persistently changing his ruffled shirt once a week, while most dandies wore theirs for a fortnight.

Washday used to come only once a month in all of Great Britain, and that custom still holds good in parts of Ireland and Wales. The Dutch and Spanish had but two washdays each year, and the semi-annual wash up is still in vogue in many parts of Spain.

Speaking of cleanliness the London Lancet, one of the leading medical journals of the world, has this to say concerning the English workingman:

"With possible exceptions in the cases of Tibet and Lapland we are compelled to admit that the English working classes are probably the dirtiest bipeds in the world, alike in their clothes and in their persons, and that they display themselves in public and even travel by public conveyances in conditions which would not be tolerated in any other civilized country.

"Nothing like English working class dirt is ever seen in public on the continent of Europe unless in its far eastern portions, and dirt is prejudicial to health not only by its direct physical operation, but, in a still greater degree, by reason of the absence of self respect which it entails and which removes from the dirty man or woman at least one safeguard against drunkenness and against misconduct."

There is danger in extreme cleanliness, at least in the everlasting scrubbing and rubbing that some people indulge in. This is particularly injurious to infants, invalids and the aged.

An experienced and highly successful physician of this city said not many years ago that more babies are bathed to death than die from dirt and its effects. He contends that the oily plugs which close the pores of the skin should not be scrubbed out. These keep the vital heat in the body until it shall have risen above a certain point when they soften and allow the heat to be carried out in the form of moisture, which is termed sweat when it becomes visible or really tangible.

A gentleman who stands well in society, in business and in church, says, on the quiet, that he has not been in a bath tub for more than three years, to which fact he attributes his entire recovery from a complication of diseases that had baffled medical doctors at home and abroad.

Nor does he take a sponge bath every day, but only when he needs it. And as for soap he rarely uses it, and when he does he lays it on lightly.

Immediately after he gave up the bathing habit he began to gain strength and to feel better.

You know yourself how weakening a bath is to those who are reasonably strong. Why?

IT IS TO SMILE.

"For goodness sake," exclaimed the new arrival, "is that fellow having a fit?"

"Oh! no," replied St. Peter, reassuringly, "you see, he was a contortionist in the world."

"But what's he doing?"

"He's trying to squirm through his halo."—Philadelphia Press.

The Last Dollar

THE STROLLER.

Hard luck stories were being told by a half dozen men who had just happened to meet at the street corner. The members of the little crowd didn't look to be down in their luck, but some of the tales would have drawn tears from an oil king. The talk began when someone tried to explain why the Pittsburghs were not in the lead for the pennant. Harry Goehring followed with an account of how he was beaten for the district attorneyship. "Marty" Howley deplored the combination of circumstances that had made "Brother Joe" the gavel wielder of the family, but it remained for Jimmy McKay to make all the others take a back seat away in the rear.

"You fellows don't know what hard luck really is. I've been up against it for fair and don't you forget that. One time a good many years ago me and a great big Irishman named Bolan were coming up the river on a steamboat—"

"How did you happen to be on the boat?" inquired Goehring.

"I got on at St. Louis and—" replied McKay.

"Well, why did you prefer the boat to a train?"

"Because me and Bolan had been doing an Irish comedy act with a burlesque show that went broke at St. Louis, and we were working our way back to the First ward, Allegheny," blurted out McKay.

"Now if you will just let me alone for a minute I'll tell you how hard luck hit me.

"As I was saying, Bolan and I were coming up the river on a tow boat. We didn't have a cent, and by the time the old tub tied up at Cairo, Ill., Bolan had a thirst that was something awful. We hadn't tied up 10 minutes before he hit the captain for a piece of change, but he didn't land.

"He come over to me then and said 'Jimmy, you can talk better than I can, so see what you can do with that child of the devil.'

"I sided up to the captain and told him that I would like to have enough money to buy some socks, and he hands out the biggest, brightest silver dollar that I ever saw before or since—at least it looked big and bright to me. 'I think Bolan wants some socks, too. You had better take him along with you,' said the captain.

"We had hardly started toward the main part of the town when Bolan says 'Give me that money, I want some booze.' 'No booze for yours,' says I, and we started to argue.

"Just a couple of feet ahead of us were two nice-looking, well-dressed girls. The day was about the hottest that ever happened and the way the sun beat down on Bolan and his thirst almost decided me to buy the quart of whisky he was talking so hard for. I was just about to hand him the dollar when one of the girls fell right over backwards.

"Bolan sprang forward and caught her before she hit the pavement. The girl was in a dead faint and began to froth at the mouth. We seemed in a pretty tight fix, when a little black eyed woman that talked like a negro, came out of a house just across the street and said: 'What you all doin' with that po' chile? Tote huh right ovah hesh to my house, quick.'

"Bolan got the girl by the feet and I caught hold of her shoulders and carried her over to the little house. We laid her down on a lounge and, thinking that she was overcome with the heat, began to put cold water on her head. After we had worked with her for about 10 minutes her companion said that they had been eating ice cream and thought the poor girl was poisoned.

"'Well, if it's pizen I'm the one who can tell mighty quick,' said the little black-eyed woman. 'If somebody just gives me a silver dollar I'll put it under huh tongue, and if it turns green it's a suah sign of pizen.'

"Everybody started to look for a dollar, but I held tight to mine, because Bolan was kicking me on the shins and threatening to take my life if I let the money get away even for a minute. There wasn't anybody in the place that had a dollar except me, so finally I handed it out, but I could hear Bolan cursing under his breath.

"The woman put the dollar under the girl's tongue and we watched for it to turn green. It didn't seem to be turning and Bolan was getting worse all the time. 'Get back that dollar before she swallows it,' he whispered.

"We kept waiting and every little while the woman would look in the girl's mouth, but the coin never changed color. The suspense was getting too much for me and Bolan, and finally we told the woman that we had to catch the boat in two minutes and that we needed the dollar at once. She looked again and straightening up quick let out a yell that she surely learned in the rebel army.

"'The po' deah's got the lock-jaw and I kaint get the dollah out.'

"Bolan made a right swing for my jaw, but I ducked and started down the street on the lope while he kept banging cobble stones after me. I beat him to the boat, but he never spoke to me during the entire trip."

"You're romancing, Jimmy," sagely remarked Goehring.

"No I'm not. One day about three years afterward, I was conductor on one of our Allegheny street cars. I collected a fare from a great big, fine-looking fellow. As I dropped the nickel into my pocket he roared:

"'See if that will turn green.'

"It was Bolan."

And Farmer Belmont Is an Expert.

Esopus court circular, July 26: Farmer Parker's breakfast consisted of potage a la fromage de Bryan, consomme a la Grover, pie a la Socialistique, cafe a la Belmont, soupcon a la Davybenet and hash a la Democratique. After breakfast Farmer Parker announced that the question of fences having been discussed with Farmer Davis, the discussion of the day would be on the subject of grafting with Farmer Belmont.—Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

Runs Best With But One Leg.

Rube Oglesby, the Democratic nominee for railroad commissioner in Missouri, was formerly a brakeman who lost a leg, which was the fault of the railroad company. He now keeps a livery stable. The loss of that leg and the employment of a delegation of women to electioneer for him secured him the nomination. He will "get even" with the railroad company should he be elected commissioner. That illustrates Democracy's queer ways in Missouri.—Philadelphia Press.

Certainly an Inexcusable Oversight.

Russia has ordered 100,000 breastplates for the army; but it does not appear that they can be so adjusted as to be worn on the back; where they would be most useful while Kuropatkin is executing one of his "brilliant maneuvers."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FABLES FROM THE NEWS.

The Leader of the Kurds slapped His Sides and Laughed Immoderately.

"Wherefore This Levity, Oh Noble Sir?" inquired his Chief Lieutenant.

"Why can't you see the Joke?" replied the Leader. "We have just attacked the City of Mush and Milked the Inhabitants of their Valuables."

Which Proves that the Kurds are originally from Kentucky or the Kentuckians came from the Land of the Kurds, for Mush and Milk is a Favorite Dish in Kentucky just as Shooting up the Town is a Favorite Pastime.

The Commander of the Legions of the Rising Sun was Haranguing his Soldiers before the Opening of the Battle.

"Waiting to see the Whites of the Eyes is Out of Date," he concluded. "Whenever you see a Bunch of Whiskers Fire, and the Enemy will be sure to Get it in the Neck."

Which Shows that a Populist Would find the Climate of Manchuria very Unwholesome at this Season of the Year.

SIX JOBS MAY BE ABOLISHED

Dauphin County Court Decides Sealers of Weights and Measures Act Unconstitutional.

STATE WILL TAKE AN APPEAL

By a decision of the Dauphin county courts, the six sealers of weights and measures for Pittsburgh and Allegheny may lose their positions. Judge Weiss has decided that the act creating the positions is unconstitutional.

The members of the local bureau were appointed by the governor on the recommendation of the county commissioners. They are Leon Einstein, Elmer White, Allegheny; James Predmore, W. S. Davis, Louis Kimmel and Andrew Lew, Pittsburgh. The men are to hold a conference today to decide whether an appeal will be taken to the supreme court. As Attorney General Carson has decided to carry the case higher, the local sealers will probably leave the matter to the state.

The Harrisburg correspondent of The Gazette last night wired this synopsis of Judge Weiss' opinion:

Weiss Says It Is Unconstitutional.

Attorney General Carson's attempt to compel Secretary of Internal Affairs Brown to equip Governor Pennypacker's inspectors of scales, weights and measures in Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Scranton was frustrated today by the Dauphin county court. In an opinion filed by President Judge Weiss, the court sustains the contention of Secretary Brown that the act of 1895, under which the appointments were made by the governor last winter at the request of the commissioners of Allegheny and Lackawanna counties, is unconstitutional because it is class legislation.

The title of the act of 1895, said Judge Weiss, affords no notice to officers, or to the public generally, that the inspectors shall be furnished equipments by the secretary of internal affairs, and for that reason the contemplated legislation comes within the constitutional ban.

The court holds that the act passed by the last legislature, appropriating $2,500 for the equipment of the secretary of internal affairs of the inspectors in first and second class cities of the state is unconstitutional, because the title seeks to carry into effect the entire act of 1895, while the body of the act as plainly applies only to the carrying into effect of sections one and two.

Brown Did His Duty.

The litigation arose from the refusal of Secretary Brown to furnish the equipment for the inspectors on the ground that the act of 1895 was unconstitutional and the appropriation was inadequate. The attorney general took the position that the secretary is a mere ministerial officer and has no discretion and brought mandamus proceedings to compel him to equip the inspectors. On this point the court says:

It is a rational rule to lay down that a public officer, especially one holding an office created by the constitution and sworn to obey it, and charged with the custody and disbursement of public money, has an interest in the matter of a duty imposed upon him by a statute which gives him standing to question the validity of the law.

The Philadelphia city commissioners have never asked the governor to appoint inspectors for that city because they were advised by their attorneys that the act of 1895 was unconstitutional. The attorney general will take the case to the supreme court.

Commissioner Mercer has always held that the act is unconstitutional, but he joined in the recommendation to the governor in order to give an opportunity to test the act. The men appointed by Pennypacker have never performed any duties, as the secretary of internal affairs never furnished the necessary apparatus.

Just as the body was about to be placed in the hearse Deputy Coroner Black ordered the body taken into the house again and held there until the inquest was over.

POLICEMAN WAITS IN VAIN FOR BEST MAN

When Officer John Sullivan of East Liberty police station asked Inspector Milton Bailey for a day off yesterday, he did not tell the inspector that he intended to be married, so Mr. Bailey was somewhat surprised when he was called by telephone to Alderman Negley's office yesterday afternoon to act as best man. Sullivan and his bride, Miss Alice Lowrie of Allegheny, had been waiting patiently for half an hour for Officer Alderdice, also of the East Liberty station, who was to be best man. Inspector Bailey had just completed officiating in that capacity when the belated brother officer appeared.

THE MYSTERY OF NELL HADFIELD

Strange Disappearance of Allegheny Girl—Missing for Over Three Months.

DETECTIVES ARE ALL AT SEA

An interesting hunt that has lasted for months and has engaged intelligent operatives of a local detective bureau has failed to restore to her family Nellie Hadfield of 911 Manhattan street, Allegheny. Since April 14 last the girl, who is only 17 years of age, has been missing, and although at times the detectives have known almost to a certainty her whereabouts, they were powerless to take her.

In the months that the weary search has gone on the family and friends of the young woman have kept the fact of her disappearance as quiet as possible, in order that no obstacles should be thrown in the path of the men who are endeavoring to take her from those who, it is said, have her in captivity. Time and again the former have been baffled just when they felt most sure of success, and long weeks of almost sleepless vigil were rewarded only with failure. It has been a game, according to the girl's mother, that has been played as keenly by one side as the other, with the advantage of possession and forewarning always with Nellie's captors.

Nellie Hadfield last winter was a teacher in the Central Methodist Episcopal church Sunday school, at Pennsylvania avenue and Manhattan street, where her mother and her grandmotner, Mrs. Mary Steele, have been members for years. Having been graduated from the public schools, she was sent to a business college in Pittsburgh to study stenography. Then, it is said, the pastor of a large parish in Allegheny became deeply interested in the girl and induced her to pursue studies that would qualify her to adopt a religious faith different from the one in which she was reared.

Gradually the girl is said to have been weaned away from the principles of the religion she had been taught at home. The influence of the priest referred to had by this time become so potent with her that Nellie announced to her mother that she desired to take a novitiate course that would fit her to become a religious sister.

The avowed determination of the girl was a cause of sorrow and alarm to the Hadfield family. It was discovered that the money given her to pay for her studies at the business college was being diverted to an institution on the South Side where the girl was said to be daily spending her hours with books and associates that would further her in her religious aspirations. This opened anew the contention at home. Then apparently Nellie repented and resumed her course at the business college.

On April 14 last she left the house as usual and has never been seen since by her family. The aid of the Allegheny police was invoked, and Superintendent M. H. Campbell, after hearing the strange story, declared that he was powerless. The operations in the case, he said, would be entirely outside the city of Allegheny, and for this reason he advised the employment of private detectives. Attorney Thomas P. Trimble, an intimate friend of the family, was consulted and made arrangements with a local detective bureau. Operatives were put to work and within a few days had the girl located, it is said, in an institution on the South Side. Later the girl was spirited away to a more remote retreat. The search was taken up again, and as the same methods had to be resorted to in each new place, failure lickly followed what promised to be success.

This hide-and-seek game has been going on for months, while the girl's relatives have become almost sick from suspense. The repeated failures have discouraged them, and they are willing to do almost anything that Nellie may be restored to them. Whether or not the girl is acquiescent in the efforts that have been made to secrete her is not known, as no message has reached the family. The thought that perhaps her daughter is being detained in opposition to her wishes adds to the intensity of Mrs. Hadfield's sufferings.

"I do not know whether Nellie wishes to live this way," said Mrs. Hadfield. "It may be that she does, but she is too young yet to come to such a decision. If she were some years older we could perhaps become reconciled to it, for then she would be of an age to decide for herself what her life should be; but she is so young yet that a false step now may blight her whole life. That is what I am fighting against.

"I want Nile with me for a few years yet, for she has not passed that age in which she needs a mother's care and counsel. The work of the detectives has been reported to me for months by Mr. Trimble, and it seems that we are no nearer finding Nellie than we were when we started. A veil of secrecy has been drawn about the affair by those who have Nellie, and it seems as hopeless to try to get into these institutions as to storm the castle of a feudal prince. The search is going to continue, but I don't know when it is going to end."

Nothing was said by Mrs. Hadfield about the man whose personality is so prominent in the affair. Attorney Trimble, when asked concerning this man, said: "Until we get the girl we can say nothing about the priest." This is as much as either the girl's mother or Mr. Trimble will say, but they declare that if Nellie Hadfield's statement is ever obtained it will cause a sensation such as has not stirred this vicinity for some time.

HOW BOND MONEY WAS EXPENDED

Larkin Tells What Was Done With the Proceeds of the Last Issue.

COUNCILS MAY MEET MONDAY

Controller Larkin yesterday issued a statement showing how the money derived from the small bond issue for the payment of old debts had been expended. He points out that as it took six months to do this work, the time required to dispose of the filtration bonds may be measured by this experience.

The last of the debts covered by the bond issue was paid yesterday. The controller makes this statement:

Bonds sold to New York bankers	$80,000 00
Bonds sold to sinking fund	285,100 00
Premium on bonds	62,250 00
Total	$1,148,350 00

To Whom Paid.

To banks for boulevard claims	$ 532,089 53
To city treasurer for widening Virgin alley	106,727 47
To T. A. Herriott for property extension of Institute	114,914 54
To Henry S. Denny, Grant boulevard damages	26,064 05
To banks for Euclid avenue claims	88,683 14
To Pennsylvania railroad, Union station improvement	215,229 35
To Diamond alley widening	14,064 94
To unnamed alley, Wheeler street, etc.	50,677 04
Total	$1,148,350 06

The proceeds from bonds and the premiums on same not only paid the debt, but left a balance of $36,000. In other words, the sinking fund was not required to take up the share allotted to it and the debt becomes that much less. It has taken six months to get this work accomplished, and the time required to get the proposed issue sold may be measured by this experience. Three sets of ordinances were necessary to get this loan through.

There may be a special meeting of common council Monday for the introduction of the filtration bond ordinances. If there is a meeting Monday, there will be special meetings of both branches later in the week. The ordinance has been drawn by City Solicitor Rodgers and is in the hands of Director Bigelow.

STATE GRANGE ENTERS FIELD OF POLITICS

Will Oppose Candidates Who Will Not Support Its Favored Measures.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, HARRISBURG, PA., July 27.

Congressional and legislative candidates who decline to pledge themselves to support legislation advocated by the Pennsylvania state grange will be opposed for election by the members of that organization.

The legislative committee of the grange has formulated a series of questions to be propounded by the Pomona and subordinate granges in this state to candidates of all parties, impartially and fairly. These questions will be printed and sent to candidates with a circular letter explaining that an "attempt of a candidate to evade a positive and direct answer should be looked upon as representative of a man with no settled convictions, and, therefore, unworthy of trust."

Congressional candidates are asked to pledge themselves to assist in passing legislation "which will enable American citizens to buy American products as cheaply at home as they are sold for abroad;" to use their influence "to secure the establishment of postal savings banks," and to favor the "establishment of a parcels post."

Legislative candidates are asked to favor legislation giving to trolley companies the right to carry freight; levying a tax of at least one mill on all personal and corporate property for road purposes, and that this money shall be applied locally, in proportion to the road mileage, to reduce road taxes; amending the state constitution so as to give to the people the right to initiate and veto legislation, and providing that all license taxes, personal property taxes and the tax on county and municipal loans shall remain in the counties and municipalities.

IMPOSTERS AT WORK.

Men Are Collecting Prizes Fraudulently for Labor Day.

The committee for Labor day having in charge the gathering of prizes for the sports to be held in Schenley park on that occasion, discovered yesterday that there is a "fake" committee at work ahead of them. The real committeemen have credentials with the seals of their organizations on them.

The committee found that Joseph Fleming, the druggist in Market street; J. M. Roberts, the jeweler, and George S. Haines of Wood street, had been victimized. The police have been notified.

BICYCLE RIDER DIES FROM OVER EXERTION

As a result of over exertion, caused by making a fast bicycle trip from Johnstown, Pa., to North Braddock, J. Finley Laird, aged 35, a well-known deaf mute of Johnstown, is dead at the home of his brother-in-law, E. S. Sawhill, in Jones avenue, North Braddock. Laird recently recovered from a severe spell of sickness and decided to ride his wheel from his home in Johnstown to North Braddock. He arrived at the latter place, July 16, was soon taken ill and died late Tuesday night. He is survived by his widow.

On Tuesday he closed and told his family he would not open again until the butchers' strike is settled. He then started for Pittsburgh on business and took a large sum of money with him. His wife and relatives fear he met with foul play.

EXECUTORS WAIT FOR CARNEGIE

Schenley Estate Will Not Be Disposed of Until the Laird of Skibo Arrives.

COSTLY HOMES IN OAKLAND

None of the Schenley estate will be sold until fall or until the return of Andrew Carnegie, one of the executors, from Europe. John W. Herron, president of the Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company, and one of the executors, said yesterday that no definite plan of action had been decided upon as he and Denny Brereton of New York, the other executor, were waiting to consult Mr. Carnegie on many important points with regard to the disposition of the vast holdings in Pittsburgh.

This information will set at rest the fears of many tenants who have been persistent in their inquiries as to when they would be expected to move or whether they could buy their present locations. Most of the Schenley leases in this city have from six to 17 years yet to run, so that to sell any great part of the property will require no little nice manipulation to avoid serious trouble.

In general the business men, particularly in Allegheny, who have built on Schenley leaseholds, are anxious to purchase the land and if the property is put on the market next year it will create a decided boom in many localities.

Public interest is perhaps centered in the disposition of the 100-acre farm near the Hotel Schenley, in Oakland. It is probable, according to Mr. Herron, that this farm will be sold off in large parcels for costly home sites instead of being cut up into small lots. This manner of selling the land would add much to the value of the district as a residence center, but would disappoint many who have looked to this location for moderate-priced homes.

PE-RU-NA A GODSEND TO THOUSANDS OF WOMEN.

WOMAN'S BURDENS ARE NUMEROUS, RESULTING IN MANY CATARRHAL ILLS.

Woman is burdened with hundreds of duties, some very weighty, some apparently insignificant; all, in the aggregate, an overwhelming load.

Is it to be wondered when they get nervous, run down, weary and weak?

Is it to be wondered when there is a general running down of all the organs, creating a chance for the great national ailment, catarrh, to make inroads upon the constitution?

Debility of any kind leads to catarrh, and catarrh will attack that organ which is the weakest.

If it is the stomach, it will become catarrh of the stomach.

If it is the kidneys, it will become catarrh of the kidneys.

If it is the female organs, it will become female catarrh, or result in catarrhal nervousness, otherwise termed nervous prostration.

There are tens of thousands of suffering women who could be relieved of their ills if they were fully conversant with the power of Peruna in relieving catarrhal ailments of every character.

We have thousands of testimonials like that of Mrs. Frye, touching the merits of Peruna as a remedy for all catarrhal diseases.

Do not delay. Buy Peruna today. Procrastination is the ally of catarrh.

Don't let anyone persuade you that there is any remedy that can be substituted for Peruna. Pay no attention to imitations.

The success of Peruna has tempted a great many people to invent something to take the place of it. There is no such remedy. Insist upon having Peruna. Take no other.

Do Not Fail to Read Mrs. Frye's Notable Experience.

Mrs. Sarah Frye, 204 Sylvan Ave., West Asbury Park, N. J., writes:

"I have no words to express my gratitude for the wonderful cure Peruna has done for me. It is a godsend to all suffering women. Peruna has done wonderful work for me. I was sick over half of my life with systemic catarrh. I want this letter published far and wide, as I was a great sufferer, but today I feel as well as anybody can feel. Nearly all my life I have spent nearly all I could make and scrape for doctors, but none of them did me any good, but since I started on your Peruna one year ago I have at last found relief in your wonderful Peruna. I had begun to think that I was not going to get well, but thank God I am well today. I hope and pray you may live long to help others as you have helped me. Instead of being a walking drug store I am growing fat and doing well. I will never be without Peruna."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

NEW BOROUGH IS BEING PLANNED

Central Part of Chartiers Township to Become a Town Soon.

ROBBERIES URGE THE WORK

With a view to securing more improvements in proportion to taxation, especially better police and fire protection, a movement is well under way for the formation of a new borough comprising West Pittsburgh, West Pittsburgh Terrace, Westwood, Clinton and Crafton terraces, having in all a population of about 1,200 people.

The underlying purpose of the new municipality is understood to be that of becoming a part of Pittsburgh eventually, but those who are behind the project refuse to commit themselves.

In case the plans are successful it is stated that other boroughs in the vicinity will absorb the outlying portions of Chartiers township, thereby causing it to pass as a part of the county government. The proposed borough includes a big strip of the township and the rest of it is now nearly filled with small towns and suburban cities.

The West Pittsburgh board of trade is behind the movement. It appointed a committee recently to do preliminary work. The committee consists of G. F. E. Wilharm, W. S. Croft, H. E. Woernley, George Johnson and W. C. Short.

Mr. Short stated last evening that the board of trade will meet next Monday night and that the committee will then report on the feasibility of the matter.

Mr. Short is enthusiastic over the work and will be one of the main defenders of the new town idea at the next meeting of the board. O. A. MacVay is president of the board. W. G. Smith is treasurer and Walter Green is secretary. B. K. Alward, formerly secretary of the board, is one of the prime movers in the borough project also.

The meeting Monday night will push the work on account of what has bee going on in the community in the way of depredations lately. So far this week there have been four robberies in West Pittsburgh alone. The residence of A. M. Eble, Belmont and Clarendon avenues, was entered. The men were scared away from his home, as they were from the residence of W. D. Steinman, near the Crafton line. The residence of R. J. Megaffin, Mount Clair street, was entered. The burglars did not go upstairs and satisfied themselves with $6 and a purse.

The home of J. T. Gray, near Belmont and Clarendon streets, was also entered and some jewelry carried away. At all the houses the intruders helped themselves to cupboards and eat everything they could find. As a direct result of these burglaries a project has also been started to employ an independent police force for the village of West Pittsburgh. This matter will also come up at the meeting separately.

RENTS ARE TOO HIGH.

Mt. Oliver Loses and Knoxville Gains a New Postoffice.

On account of the rentals asked by the property owners of Mt. Oliver, it is likely that the new station of the Pittsburgh postoffice will be located in Knoxville instead of in Mt. Oliver, as originally intended.

A. M. Norris of the division of salary and allowances in the postoffice department, visited both Mt. Oliver and the West End yesterday. He was accompanied by Assistant Postmaster George L. Holliday. All the parties who had made bids on the Mt. Oliver site refused to reduce their rental, which is above the allowance made by the department. As a result an option was taken on a building in Knoxville at a much less rental. This building will be occupied in a few days and free delivery given the Mt. Oliver district from Knoxville within the next few weeks.

The new West End station will be opened in a few days in the Heselbarth property, at 216 South Main street.

Charles Pinkerton was yesterday appointed by Postmaster George H. Holliday as a clerk in sub-station No. 19, at Ellsworth and College avenues.

TRIO DID NOT SHOW UP.

Suspected Pickpockets Failed to Appear for a Hearing—Bail to Be Forfeited.

Morris Miller, Alexander Miller and Walter Ross, who were arrested last Saturday suspected of being pickpockets and released on bail, failed to appear at the hearing before Magistrate Stewart yesterday. It is believed they have left the city. Their bondsman, Ralph C. Tannehill, a local attorney, told the police officials he would try to locate the men and have them appear for a hearing today.

Superintendent of Detectives McQuaide is investigating. He believes bail should have not been accepted for the men, and he thinks the arresting officers should have prevented it. Unless the men appear for a hearing, Attorney Tannehill will have to forfeit the $500 bail he left for the trio.

UNCLE SAM'S LOTTERY READY.

There Will Be About 3,000 Prize Numbers in the Rosebude Drawing.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., July 27.—General Land Commissioner Richards has arrived from Washington, and everything is in readiness for the drawing tomorrow morning, which is to distribute 2,400 quarter sections of land in the Rosebud reservation. The drawing will be under the direct supervision of Commissioner Richards, who will be assisted by Judge Wakeley of Omaha and P. F. Sherman of Sioux Falls, S. D.

A building 25 feet square, open on four sides, has been built in the center of the great open space, and in this the drawing will be conducted. The taking of the numbers from the box will probably be done by boys. Commissioner Richards said he had decided to issue 600 provisional numbers. These numbers are to be used by those next entitled to draw in case any of those fortunate enough to draw a claim, fail to meet requirements. This will bring the winning numbers up to about 3,000.

Race Result Reversed.

In the automobile match race between W. C. Cavanaugh and George E. Turner, held over the mile course on Beechwood boulevard, yesterday morning, the former won in two straight heats. The match was the result of the defeat of Cavanaugh by Turner during the speed races of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, held last Saturday afternoon. The same machines were used, Turner driving a Peerless and Cavanaugh a Pope-Toledo. The time averaged 1:04 2-5 for the mile.

Great Underwear Sale Continues

Last year we had a similar sale of Sample Undermuslins—and we thought we'd be doing well with this sale if we could equal the record then established. But, to our pleasant surprise, we've done considerably more business this year. Perhaps because the values are better and the undermuslins nicer—perhaps because women who attended the sale last year told their friends what enormous bargains they got—and all waited for the announcement this year. At any rate, the sale has been a grand success. But it will soon be over, so take heed and buy while you can.

Half price is surely little enough for garments as fine and good as these.

DEMOCRACY IS DOUBT AND DISCORD

Speaker Cannon Discusses the Significance of the November Election.

ADDRESS TO THE PRESIDENT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, July 27.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, chairman of the Republican notification committee, formally notified the president of his nomination for the presidency in the following address:

Mr. President—The people of the United States, by blood, heredity, education and practice, are a self-governing people. We have sometimes been subject to prejudice and embarrassment from harmful conditions, but we have outgrown prejudice and overcome conditions as rapidly as possible, having due regard to law and the rights of individuals. We have sometimes made mistakes, from a false sense of security or from a desire to change policies instead of letting well enough alone, merely to see what would happen, but we have always paid the penalty of unwise action at the ballot-box and endured the suffering until, under the law, through the ballot-box, we have returned to correct policies. Tested by experience, no nation has so successfully solved all problems and chosen proper policies as our nation. Under the lead of the Republican party for over 40 years, the United States, from being a third-class power among the nations has become in every respect first. The people rule. The people ruling, it is necessary that they should be competent to rule. Competency requires not only patriotism but material well-being, education, statecraft.

American Labor Elevated.

The people, under the lead of the Republican party, wrote upon the statute books revenue laws, levying taxes upon the products of foreign countries seeking our markets which replenished our treasury, but were so adjusted as to encourage our people in developing, diversifying and maintaining our industries, at the same time protecting our citizens laboring in production against the competition of foreign labor. Under this policy our manufactured product today is one-third of the product of the civilized world and our people receive almost double the pay for their labor that similar labor receives elsewhere in the world, thereby enabling us to bear the burdens of citizenship.

Liberal compensation for labor makes liberal customers for our products. Under this policy of protection our home market affords all our people a better market than has any other people on earth, and this, too, even if we did not sell any of our products abroad. In addition to this we have come to be the greatest exporting nation in the world. For the year ending June 30, 1904, our exports to foreign countries were valued at $1,460,000,000, of which $450,000,000 were products of the factory. The world fell in our debt last year $470,000,000, an increase of $75,000,000 over the preceding year.

Always Opposed by Democrats.

This policy of protection has always been opposed by the opponents of the Republican party and is opposed by them today. In their last national platform, adopted at St. Louis, they denounce protection as robbery. They never have been given power but they preceded by word and act to destroy the policy of protection. They are as silent as the grave touching the gold standard and our currency system. Their chosen leader, after his nomination, having been as silent as the sphinx up to that time, sent his following assurance that the gold standard is established, and that he will govern himself accordingly if he should be elected.

I congratulate him. It is better to be right late than never. It is better to be right in one thing than wrong in all things. I wonder if it ever occurred to him that if his vote and support for his party's candidate in 1896 and 1900 had been decisive we would now have the silver standard. I wonder what made him send that telegram after he was nominated, and why he did not send it before. When did he have a change of heart and judgment? And does he at heart believe in the gold standard and our currency system, or does he try now to reap where he has not sown? Is it perchance, he should be elected by forcing together discordant elements, I submit that, with a Democratic house of representatives or house and senate, there would be no harmonious action in legislation or administration that would benefit the people, but that doubt and discontent would everywhere distress production and labor. Consumption would be curtailed. In short, we would have an experience similar to that from 1893 to 1897.

Democrats Should Repent.

If this chosen leader and his friends are converts to Republican policies, should not they "bring forth fruits meet for repentance" before they ask to be replaced in the highest positions to affect the well-being of all; or, if they profess all things to all men, then they are not worthy the confidence of any man. If clothed with power, will they follow in the paths of legislation according to their loves and votes as manifested by their action always heretofore, or will they stand by, protect and defend the gold standard, and our currency system that have been created under the lead of the Republican party?

Correct revenue laws, protection or free trade, the gold standard and our currency system, all depend upon the sentiment of the majority of our people as voiced at the ballot box. A majority may change our revenue laws; a majority may destroy the gold standard and establish the silver standard, or, in lieu of either or both, make the treasury note, non-interest bearing and irredeemable, the sole standard of value.

Sir, let us turn from the region of doubt and double dealing; the debatable land, to the region of assured certainty. The Republican party stands for protection. It stands for the gold standard and our currency system. All these dwell in legislation enacted under the lead of the Republican party and against the most determined opposition of the Democratic party, including its leader and candidate. These being our policies, and having been most useful to the country, we have confidence in and love them. If it be necessary from time to time that they should be strengthened here and controlled there, the Republican party stands ready, with loving competent hands, to apply the proper remedy. I say "remedy." Being our policies, we will not willingly subject them to their enemies for slow starvation on the one hand or to sudden destruction on the other.

First Among All Nations.

Since the Republican party was restored to power, in 1897, under the lead of McKinley, our country has prospered in production and in commerce as it has never prospered before. In wealth, we stand first among all the nations. Under the lead of William McKinley, the war with Spain was speedily brought to a successful conclusion. Under the treaty of peace and our action, Cuba is free, and, under guarantees written in her constitution and our legislation, it is assured that she will so remain free. We also acquired Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines, by a treaty the ratification of which was only possible by the votes of Democratic senators. Civil government has been established in Porto Rico, and we are journeying toward civil government in the Philippines as rapidly as the people of the archipelago are able to receive it; and this, too, notwithstanding the false cry of "imperialism" raised by the Democratic party and still insisted upon, which lead to insurrection in the Philippines and tends to lead to further insurrection there. The record of the Republican party under the lead of William McKinley has passed into history. Who dares assail it?

In the history of the republic, in time of peace, no executive has had greater questions to deal with than yourself, and none have brought greater courage, wisdom and patriotism to their solution. You have enforced the law against the mighty and the lowly without fear, favor or partiality. Under the Constitution, you have recommended legislation to congress from time to time, as it was your duty to do, and when it was passed by congress, have approved it. You have, under the Constitution, led in making a treaty which was ratified by the senate and approved by the people, which not only assures, but, under the law and appropriations made by congress, proceeds with, the construction of the Panama canal.

Record for Doing Things.

The Republican party, under your leadership, keeps its record from the beginning under Lincoln of doing things, the right thing at the right time and in the right way, notwithstanding the opposition of those who oppose the right policies from the selfish or partisan standpoint. They dare not tell the truth about your official action or the country and them condemn it. They can, for selfish or partisan reasons, abuse you personally and misrepresent the party which you lead. It is true, however, that, so far, their abuse of your action and their neglect of your personality is insignificant as compared with the personal and partisan carpings against Lincoln, Grant and McKinley when they were clothed with power by the people. Those whose only grievance is that you have enforced the law and those who carp for more partisan capital will not, in my judgment, reap the harvest of success. The Republican party for you and under your leadership speaks to the great body of the people who live in the sweat of their faces, make the civilization, control the republic, fight its battles and determine its policies, for approval and continuance in power.

The office of President of the United States is the greatest on earth and many competent men in the Republican party are ambitious to hold it, yet the Republican convention met in Chicago June 21st and unanimously, with one accord, nominated you as the candidate of the party for president. I am sure all Republicans and a multitude of good citizens who do not call themselves Republicans will "Amen."

In pursance of the usual custom, the convention appointed a committee, of which it honored me with the chairmanship, to wait upon you and inform you of its action, which duty, delightful for the committee, I now cheerfully perform, with the hope and the confident expectation that a majority of the people of the republic will in November next approve the action of the convention and the following electors will assure your election to the presidency as your own successor.

THE REPUBLICANS STAND ON RECORD

Roosevelt Says Party Is Not Constrained to Keep Silent on Any Vital Question.

PAST GUARANTEES FUTURE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, R. I., July 27.—President Roosevelt, in response to Speaker Cannon, chairman, and members of the committee, who formally notified him of his nomination for the presidency, spoke as follows:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Notification Committee—I am deeply sensible of the high honor conferred upon me by the representatives of the Republican party assembled in convention, and I accept the nomination for the presidency with solemn realization of the obligations I assume. I heartily approve the declaration of principles which the Republican national convention has adopted, and at some future day I shall communicate to you, Mr. Chairman, more at length and in detail a formal written acceptance of the nomination.

Three years ago I became president because of the death of my lamented predecessor. I then stated that it was my purpose to carry out his principles and policies for the honor and interest of the country. To the best of my ability I have kept the promise thus made. If next November my countrymen confirm at the polls the action of the convention you represent, I shall, under Providence, continue to work with an eye single to the welfare of all our people.

A party is of worth only in so far as it promotes the national interest, and every official, high or low, can serve his party best by rendering to the people the best service of which he is capable. Effective government comes only as the result of the loyal co-operation of many different persons. The members of a legislative majority, the officers in the various departments of the administration, and the legislative and executive branches as toward each other, must work together with subordination of self to the common good of successful government. We who have been entrusted with power as public servants during the past seven years of administration and legislation now come before the people content to be judged by our record of achievement. In the years that have gone by we have made the deed square with the world; and if we are continued in power we shall unswervingly follow out the great lines of public policy which the Republican party has already laid down: a public policy to which we are giving, and shall give, a united, and therefore an efficient, support.

Past Is Guarantee for Future.

In all of this we are more fortunate than our opponents, who now appeal for confidence on the ground, which some express and some seek to have confidently understood, that if triumphant they may be trusted to prove false to every principle which in the last eight years they have laid down as vital, and to leave undisturbed those very acts of the administration because of which they ask that the administration itself be driven from power. Seemingly their present attitude as to their past record is that some of them were mistaken and others insincere. We make our appeal in a wholly different spirit. We are not constrained to keep silent on any vital question; we are divided on no vital question on our policy and conduct is the same for all sections and localities. There is nothing experimental about the government we ask the people to continue in power, for our performance in the past, our proved governmental efficiency, is a guarantee as to our promises for the future. Our opponents, either openly or secretly, according to their several temperaments, now ask the people to trust their present promises in consideration of the fact that they intend to treat their past promises as null and void. We know our own minds and we have kept of the same mind for a sufficient length of time to give to our policy coherence and sanity. In such a fundamental matter as the enforcement of the law we do not have to depend upon promises, but merely to ask that our record be taken as an earnest of what we shall continue to do. In dealing with the great organizations known as trusts we do not have to explain why the laws were not enforced, but to point out that they actually have been enforced and that legislation has been enacted to increase the effectiveness of their enforcement. We do not have to propose to "turn the rascals out," for we have shown in very deed that whenever by diligent investigation a public official can be found who has betrayed his trust he will be punished to the full extent of the law without regard to whether he was appointed under a Republican or a Democratic administration. This is the efficient way to turn the rascals out and to keep them out, and it has the merit of sincerity. Moreover the betrayals of trust in the last seven years have been insignificant in number when compared with the extent of the public service. Never has the administration of the government been on a cleaner and higher level; never has the public work of the nation been done more honestly and efficiently.

Not a Shifting Policy.

Assuredly it is unwise to change the policies which have worked so well and which are now working so well. Prosperity has come at home. The national honor and interest have been upheld abroad. We have placed the finances of the nation upon a sound gold basis. We have done this with the aid of many who were formerly our opponents, but who would neither openly support nor silently acquiesce in the heresy of unsound finance; and we have done it against the convinced and violent opposition of the mass of our present opponents, who still refuse to abandon their unsound opinions which for the moment they think it expedient to assert. We know what we mean when we speak of an honest and stable currency. We mean the same thing from year to year. We do not have to avoid a definite and conclusive committal on the most important issue which has recently been before the people, and which may at any time in the near future be before the people again. Upon the principles which underlie this issue the convictions of half of our number do not clash with those of the other half. So long as the Republican party is in power the gold standard is settled, not as a matter of temporary political expediency, not because of shifting conditions in the production of gold in certain mining centers, but in accordance with what we regard as the fundamental principles of national morality and wisdom.

Under the financial legislation which we have enacted there is now ample circulation for every business need; and every dollar of this circulation is worth a dollar in gold. We have reduced the interest-bearing debt and in still larger measure the interest on that debt. All of the war taxes imposed during the Spanish war have been removed with a view to relieve the people and to prevent the accumulation of an unnecessary surplus. The result is that hardly ever before have the expenditures and income of the government so closely corresponded. In the fiscal year that has just closed the excess of income over the ordinary expenditures was $9,000,000. This does not take account of the $50,000,000 expended out of the accumulated surplus for the purchase of the Isthmian canal. It is an extraordinary proof of the sound financial condition of the nation that instead of following the usual course in such matters and throwing the burden upon posterity by an issue of bonds, we were able to make the payment outright and yet after it to have in the treasury a surplus of $151,000. Moreover, we were able to pay this $50,000,000 out of hand without causing the slightest disturbance to business conditions.

Tariff in Safe Hands.

We have enacted a tariff law under which during the past few years the country has attained a height of material well-being never before reached. Wages are higher than ever before. That whenever the need arises there should be a readjustment of the tariff schedules is undoubted; but such changes can with safety be made only by those whose devotion to the principle of a protective tariff is beyond question; for otherwise the changes would amount not to readjustment but to repeal. The readjustment when made must maintain the standards on the protective principle. To the farmer, the merchant, the manufacturer this is vital; but perhaps no other man is so much interested as the wage-worker in the maintenance of our present economic system, both as regards the finances and the tariff. The standard of living of our wage-workers is higher than that of any other country, and it cannot so remain unless we have a protective tariff which shall always keep as a minimum a rate of duty sufficient to cover the difference between the labor cost here and abroad. Those who, like our opponents, denounce protection as a robbery," thereby explicitly commit themselves to the proposition that if they were to revise the tariff no heed would be paid to the necessity of meeting this difference between the standards of living for wage-workers here and in other countries; and therefore on this point their antagonism to our position is fundamental. Here again we ask that their promises and ours be judged by what has been done in the immediate past. Let all fair and sensible men compare the workings of the present tariff law, and the conditions which obtain under it, with the workings of the preceding tariff law of 1894 and the conditions which that tariff of 1894 helped to bring about.

We believe in reciprocity with foreign nations on the terms outlined in President McKinley's last speech, which urged the extensions of our foreign markets by reciprocal agreements whenever they could be made without injury to American industry and labor. It is a singular fact that the only great reciprocity treaty recently adopted—that with Cuba—was finally opposed almost alone by the representatives of the very party which now states that it favors reciprocity. And here again we ask that the worth of our words be judged by comparing their deeds with ours. On this Cuban reciprocity treaty there were at this outset grave differences of opinion among ourselves; and the notable thing in the negotiation and ratification of the treaty, and in the legislation which carried it into effect, was the highly practical manner in which without sacrifice of principle these differences of opinion were reconciled. There was no rupture of a great party, but an excellent practical outcome, the result of the harmonious co-operation of two successive presidents and two successive congresses. This is an illustration of the governing capacity which entitles us to the confidence of the people not only in our purposes but in our practical ability to achieve those purposes. Judging by the history of the last 12 years, down to this very month, is there justification for believing that under similar circumstances and with similar initial differences of opinion, our opponents would have achieved any practical result?

Equal Justice to All Men.

We have already shown in actual fact that our policy is to do fair and equal justice to all men, paying no heed to whether a man is rich or poor; paying no heed to his race, his creed, or his birthplace.

We recognize the organization of capital and the organization of labor as natural outgrowths of our industrial system. Each kind of organization is to be favored so long as it acts in a spirit of justice and of regard for the rights of others. Each is to be granted the full protection of the law, and each in turn is to be held to a strict obedience to the law; for no man is above it and no man below it. The humblest individual is to have his rights safeguarded as scrupulously as those of the strongest organization, for each is to receive justice, no more and no less. The problems with which we have to deal in our modern industrial and social life are manifold, but the spirit in which it is necessary to approach their solution is simply the spirit of honesty, of courage, and of common sense.

In inaugurating the great work of irrigation in the west the administration has been enabled by congress to take one of the longest strides ever taken under our government toward utilizing our vast national domain for the settler, the actual home-maker.

Ever since this continent was discovered the need of an isthmian canal to connect the Pacific and the Atlantic has been recognized; and ever since the birth of our nation such a canal has been planned. At last the dream has become a reality. The isthmian canal is now being built by the government of the United States. We conducted the negotiation for its construction with the nicest and most scrupulous honor, and in a spirit of the largest generosity toward those through whose territory it was to run. Every sinister effort which could be devised by the spirit of faction or the spirit of self-interest was made in order to defeat the treaty with Panama and thereby prevent the consummation of this work. The construction of the canal is now an assured fact; but most certainly it is unwise to entrust the carrying out of so momentous a policy to those who have endeavored to defeat the whole undertaking.

Our foreign policy has been so conducted that, while not one of our just claims has been sacrificed, our relations with all foreign nations are now of the most peaceful kind; there is not a cloud on the horizon. The last cause of irritation between us and and other nations was removed by the settlement of the Alaskan boundary.

Desire Friendship With Nations.

In the Caribbean sea we have made good our promises of independence to Cuba, and have proved our assertion that our mission in the island was one of justice and not of self-aggrandizement; and thereby no less than by our position in Venezuela and Panama we have shown that the Monroe doctrine is a living reality, designed for the hurt of no nation, but for the protection of civilization in the western continent and for the peace of the world. Our steady growth in power has gone hand in hand with a strengthening disposition to use this power with strict regard for the rights of others, and for the cause of international justice and good will.

We earnestly desire friendship with all the nations of the new and old worlds; and we endeavor to place our relations with them upon a basis of advantage instead of hostility. We hold that the prosperity of each nation is an aid and not a hindrance to the prosperity of other nations. We seek international amity for the same reasons that make us believe peace within our own borders; and we seek this peace not because we are afraid or unready; but because we think that peace is right as well as advantageous.

American interests in the Pacific have rapidly grown. American enterprise has laid a cable across this, the greatest of oceans. We have proved in effective fashion that we wish the Chinese empire well and desire its integrity and independence.

Our foothold in the Philippines greatly strengthens our position in the competition for the trade of the east; but we are governing the Philippines mainly in the interest of the Philippine people themselves. We have already given them a large share in their government, and our purpose is to increase this share as rapidly as they give evidence of increasing capacity for self-control. The great majority of the officials of the islands, whether elective or appointive, are already native Filipinos. We are now providing for a legislative assembly. This is the first step in advance in the course laid out. It would be eminently unwise to declare what our next step will be until this first step has been taken and the results are manifest. To have gone faster than we have already gone in giving the people a constantly increasing measure of self-government would have been disastrous.

Must Guarantee Rights.

At the present moment to give political independence to the Islands would result in the immediate loss of civil rights, personal liberty and public order, as regards the mass of the Filipinos, for the majority of the people have been upheld in these great boons by us, and only keep them because we vigilantly safeguard and guarantee them. To withdraw our government from the islands at this time would mean to the average native the loss of his barely won civil freedom. We have established in the islands a government by Americans assisted by Filipinos. We are steadily striving to transform this into self-government by the Filipinos assisted by Americans.

The principles which we uphold should appeal to all our countrymen, in all portions of our country. Above all they should give us strength with the men and women who are the spiritual heirs of those who upheld the hands of Abraham Lincoln; for we are striving to do our work in the spirit with which Lincoln approached his. During the seven years that have just passed there is no duty, domestic or foreign, which we have shirked, no necessary task which we have feared to undertake, or which we have not performed with reasonable efficiency. We have never pleaded impotence. We have never sought refuge in criticism and complaint instead of action. We face the future with our past and our present as guarantors of our promises, and we are content to be tried by the record which we have made and are making.

BOILERMAKERS ARE TO FORM DISTRICT COUNCIL

All Workmen Employed by the Manufacturers' Association Are to Consolidate.

A district council of all the boilermakers and boilermakers' helpers in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio is to be formed as soon as possible. The new organization will include at least 30 local unions. Charles Jenkins, business agent of Duquesne lodge No. 31 (helpers) of the Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders, has charge of the plans to organize the council.

The principal reason for forming the council is to have a uniform scale for all men employed by the Manufacturers' association, which is composed of manufacturers throughout this territory. At present nearly every local has different working rules and wages, but by the plan one wage conference can settle all wage scales in this territory.

There are locals at Alliance, Warren, Sharon, New Castle, Lowellville, Girard, Youngstown, Washington, McKees Rocks, Pittsburgh, Braddock, Johnstown, Butler, Altoona and Oil City.

Charles Jenkins has just been elected fourth vice president of the national body and at the convention just closed at Chattanooga was instructed to use his influence in forming the council.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS FORM AN ORGANIZATION

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—Today was "amateur photographers' day" at the fair. In the Missouri state building Halsey S. Ives, chief of the department of art, delivered an address of welcome. T. W. McClelland, president of the Missouri Amateur Camera club, responded. An organization was effected under the name "National Amateur Photographers' Association of America."

Two Policemen May Be Dismissed.

Five officers appeared for hearings before the police third board yesterday. Policemen Charles Allen and James Dunn were recommended for dismissal on charges of conduct unbecoming officers. The others were exonerated by the board.

The Three Rivers

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, O., July 27.—The stage of the Ohio at 6 o'clock this evening marked 7.7 feet and falling, making a fall of .5 during the last 24 hours. Weather clear and pleasant. Today's departures of packets were: Bonanza for Pomeroy, Courier for Maysville, City of Cincinnati for Louisville. The Reed Lee arrived from Memphis with a good trip. She returns Saturday. This will be last boat from Memphis for some time. From Cincinnati unless more water comes from above. The Keystone State and Queen City of the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati packet line arrived in the harbor last night. They were sent to the bank waiting for more rain at headwaters. The Ed Roberts, one of the big boats of the combine, is hard aground at Carpenter. The Enterprise was sent to try to pull her off the shoal and was caught herself. Both boats will wait for a rise. The present stage of water has exposed many barges along the banks which were sunk last winter. The different companies are again cut locating these derelicts with a view of saving them.

RISE IS EXPECTED.

Navigation Not Suspended, but Water Is Still Lower—Enterprise Runs Aground.

Rivermen are expecting rain before the end of the week and those who are most proficient in the art of prophecy say there is every indication of a good rise in the rivers before Sunday. The rise is badly needed, especially between Pittsburgh and Wheeling. Although the Cincinnati packets have been put out of the running temporarily navigation down-river has not been suspended. The Big Kanawha will arrive from Parkersburg today and the Greenwood is on the way here from Charleston. There is a good stage of water up the Monongahela.

The River Coal Company is encountering considerable difficulty on account of the low water in the Ohio. The company had two boats aground this week. The second accident of this kind since Sunday has befallen the Enterprise, which is now aground at Lacock, above Rochester, in the middle of the channel. She was on her way to Marietta to get a load of empties. The Ed Roberts is still aground at Carpenters bar above Marietta. Both boats will get off with a rise of about five inches which is now being looked for.

The stage of water in the Ohio river according to the gauges at Davis island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 3.4 feet and falling.

The Columbia will be the Morgantown packet today.

The Big Kanawha will be the Parkersburg packet today.

The Alice Brown has been compelled to lay up at Rochester because of low water.

Capt. Holmes Harger has filed a suit in the United States district court against the steamboat W. K. Fine, all-ging there is due him $105 for 3 months' wages as pilot of the boat. His original claim was $435, and of this $285 has been paid.

W. C. WHITNEY'S ESTATE VALUED AT $21,234,101

Inheritance Tax Appraiser's Report Shows More Property Than Was Expected.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—When William C. Whitney died there was much discussion concerning the value of his estate. He was a free liver, had been retired from business for some years, and the supposition was that his fortune was not so large as reports had placed it while he was alive.

The filing of the inheritance tax appraiser's report on the estate today shows that Mr. Whitney's property holdings in this state amounted to $21,234,101, a sum greater than that popularly accredited to him in financial circles.

The report was filed in the Nassau county court at Mineola, L. I., by Appraiser Charles F. Lewis, who found that the estate was subject to a tax of $2,836,918 77, but from this sum the estate was allowed a rebate of $11,695 98 because of the payment of the tax before the expiration of six months from the death of Mr. Whitney.

When the report was filed in court there were representatives of the Whitney estate present, who promptly paid the amount of the tax, and thus took advantage of the rebate.

ALEXANDER DODDS.

Negro Charged With Kidnaping.

Thomas Moss, a negro cook in a downtown restaurant, had a hearing yesterday before Magistrate Stewart on a charge of kidnaping the son of Emma Lewis and was held for court in default of $500 bail. The woman alleged that Moss took her son from her four years ago and went to Washington, D. C. He returned to the city recently and was arrested. The boy is now 8 years old and was turned over to his mother.

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

St. Louis at Exposition park.
New York at Brooklyn.
Cincinnati at Chicago.
Philadelphia at Boston.

Michael Joyce O'Neill, the big left-hander of the Cardinals, came pretty close to being the whole show at Exposition park yesterday, as it was his pitching and hitting that enabled the St. Louis team to score a 5 to 4 victory over the Pirates in the second game of the series. There was a crowd of 2,610 out to see the contest and the disappointed ones got even by "jawing" the umpire.

It was a case of Michael vs. Michael so far as the pitching was concerned, and the local Michael got the worst of it and was hit harder and more consecutively than in any contest he has taken part in since becoming a Pirate. It was Lynch's turn to pitch, and he went in with a sore arm, which caused him to be wild, and this wildness was largely responsible for the visitors' victory. In the first inning he forced in a run by giving bases on balls, and in the fifth his base on balls to Shannon was converted into a run.

O'Neill pitched superb ball for the Cardinals and up to the eighth inning but one hit was made off his delivery, a single by Carisch in the fifth. O'Neill did not seem to have anything to fool a good batsman, and kept putting the ball over the plate, but try as they might the Pirates could not get it safe. Added to the display of pitching was a display of fierce batting on his part, having two three-base hits, one in the sixth inning to middle field, which brought Barclay home with a run, and one in the eighth, which also brought Burke in with a tally. This long hit in the eighth and the exertion of chasing around the bases took all of O'Neill's pitching, for it was in the Pirates' half of the same inning that they jumped on his delivery and came near tieing the score.

It was Jimmy Burke who paved the way for the Pirates' runs in the eighth, when he made a wild throw of Smith's bounder. Carisch, who was next at bat, went out on a fly to Farrell, and Lynch followed with a single to center which caused the crowd to start its rooting. Beaumont tapped the ball down between first and second, which Beckley secured, but he left first base uncovered and Beaumont had no trouble in reaching there safely. Three men were on the bases when Kruger came to bat, and he more than made good by driving the ball down into left center for a three-base hit, and three runs were scored. Kruger brought in the fourth run on Wagner's foul fly.

The Pirates came within an inch of tieing the score in the ninth, and some of the spectators blamed Umpire Emslie for the failure. Sebring, who was first up in the ninth, went out from Burke to Beckley and Ritchey followed with a single and went to second on Smith's out at first. Carisch then placed a single in middle field, on which Ritchey tried to score, but Smoot's throw was perfect and Catcher Grady put the ball on Ritchey as he slid into the plate. The decision was a close one, but the umpire was correct, as Ritchey was out. The Pirates appeared on the field in patched-up shape, as Leach was off duty with a sore arm, Kruger taking his place at third, and Harry Smith was in left field.

With two out in the first inning, the Cardinals worked in a couple of lucky infield singles and two bases on balls followed, forcing Beckley in with the first run. Shannon drew a base on balls in the fifth and scored on a long drive to right by Beckley. Singles by Burke and Grady and a three-bagger by Lynch by O'Neill gave the Cardinals two more runs in the sixth. Burke led off with a single in the eighth and was brought home by O'Neill, who made his second three-base hit, a fine drive to right. The score:

NIEL OUTFIGHTS M'GOVERN IN SIX VICIOUS ROUNDS

Boy from the Coast Has Brooklynite "Hanging On" at Finish of Bout.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—Frank Neil of San Francisco, bantam champion of the world, clearly outfought Hughey McGovern of Brooklyn, at the National Athletic club here tonight. The fight throughout was the most vicious ever witnessed in this city between little men. At the close of the sixth round McGovern was almost out and was hanging on to Niel to avoid punishment. McGovern drew blood from the Californian's nose in the second round, and opened a gash in his left cheek in the succeeding round. Neil cut a gash in McGovern's left cheek in the fifth round, and toward the close of the round McGovern was very shaky on his feet. The fight by rounds:

ROUND ONE—Neil landed a left on the wind and brought his glove up to the jaw. McGovern countered with a light left to the wind and then they clinched. In the breakaway Neil drove his left to the wind and McGovern landed on the jaw. McGovern uppercut to the chin, but Neil straightened his Brooklyn lad up with a left to the chin. McGovern drove a right to the face and then backed away. Neil rushed in with left and right to the face and McGovern covered up. As the gong sounded Neil drove a hard left and right to the jaw.

ROUND TWO—Both boys rushed to the center of the ring and began to pummel each other in a vicious manner. Neil was the first to land. He drove a left to the face and in the break put his right to the wind. McGovern uppercut with his left and they clinched. McGovern sent a pretty right to Neil's jaw, but the latter smiled and winked at his father, who was standing in his corner. Neil landed a hard left to the jaw and they clinched. McGovern uppercut as they broke away, and Neil drove his right to the stomach before McGovern could get away. They clinched and when McGovern stepped back he received a vicious right to the wind. McGovern rushed but was met with a straight left. He rushed again and landed a hard right to the jaw, which shook Neil's head. They were clinching at the bell.

ROUND FIVE—Neil sent three lefts to the jaw which shook McGovern. The latter came back with a hard right to the wind and a left hook to the neck. Neil drove a left to the jaw and a right to the ear. McGovern missed a hard right swing, which carried him half way across the ring. Before he could get set Neil was in with a left to the chin. McGovern missed right and left to the head, and they rushed to clinch. Neil kept jabbing McGovern as they broke away and had the latter's face as red as a lobster. Both boys were tired when the gong sounded. Neil, from his exertions in trying to knock McGovern out, and the latter from the awful punishment he was reciving.

ROUND SIX—Both boys came up quickly, and Neil again drove his left to the wind. They clinched and Neil rested his head on McGovern's shoulder and said to Terry, the latter's brother: "He's a hard kid, Terry." When they broke away Neil rushed McGovern across the ring and landed left and right to the jaw. McGovern got in a good right to the wind and left to the ear. But Neil only shook his head and rushed in with a terrible right to the wind. McGovern's hands dropped to his waist and Neil sent a stiff left to the jaw. Neil had McGovern in a neutral corner hanging on to avoid punishment as the gong sounded.

STARS STILL PLAY.

Tennis Experts Put Up Fine Fames In Boston Tourney.

BOSTON, MASS., July 27.—The starting of the eastern championship in doubles was the feature of the tennis at the Longwood Cricket club today. The fifth round in the singles was also reached today and the semi-finals is now in sight, with all the stars remaining.

Two former champions, William A. Larned and O. S. Campbell, made their appearance in the doubles and followed were their good form, although they won their match. Holcombe Ward and B. C. Wright, this year's unbeaten pair, were in fine fettle in their match with H. H. Hitchcock and B. S. Prentice, winning in straight sets.

Of the matches in singles those between W. J. Clothier and P. A. Lyon, Jr., and R. W. Leonard and J. F. Fallowes were the best fought. Lyon, an old Yale champion, kept Clothier busy for two sets by fast play, but the Harvard man began parsing him in the third set and won. Leonard won his match.

MUST BE A JOKE.

Story That "Bad Bill" Dahlen May Quit Baseball and Become an Evangelist.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(Special.)—A story is current today that "Bad Bill" Dahlen of the New York National league, and one of the best infielders on the diamond, today has decided to quit baseball and, following "Bill" Sunday's example, become an evangelist. There is a question whether the story is told seriously or only in the nature of a joke, and Dahlen is mum on the subject.

According to the story an evengelist has been paying especial attention to Dahlen during the recent western trip and also wrote him a number of letters urging him to give up baseball and turn his attention to the saving of souls.

Dahlen, according to the story, was at first amused, but soon angry, then showed the epistles to "Dan" McGann, "Billy" Gilbert and others. Gradually he became morose, would hardly talk to anyone, and while on the train sat by himself, never joining in the discussion of the games.

Finally in Chicago the climax came, when instead of visiting "Pop" Anson's billiard parlor last Saturday night with the crowd, Dahlen walked away with the evangelist and his assistant. It is said that Dahlen has asked for his release, but this statement cannot be verified.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MONONGAHELA, PA., July 27.—John Lee lies dead at Scurfield's morgue, Angelo Sismondo and Jack Domigkini are under arrest and Louis Muswill is pursued by Chief of Police Leo Logan.

Caesar Sopino told Lee's story of the murder. Weeks ago Lee incurred the hatred of Sismondo, Domigkini and Muswill. All were employed in the Schoenberger mine at Baird, two miles above here. Last night the three crossed the river to the Allegheny county side where Lee lived with Sopino. They made professions of friendship. The five men chatted until midnight, when the visitors suggested that Lee and Sopino row the visitors to the Washington county side. This was readily consented to. When the boat reached Baird the plotters got on shore first, after turning to Lee with extended hands and remarking: "It's over now; we will be friends." As Lee stepped out to shove the boat from shore two shots rang out. Lee fell. Sopino sprang to his side, dragging and carrying a few yards from the water's edge. "Good-by," gasped Lee. "They've killed me." Sopino knelt and kissed the dying man's forehead when there was another shot. The bullet whistled past Sopino's ear and the latter sprang into the boat and stumbled over the side into the water. Supposing they had killed him the murderers fled. Sopino crept from the water and gave the alarm.

Chief of Police Logan and Officer Charles Bowden were notified. At 3 o'clock this morning they captured Sismondo and Domigkini in a house at Victory Hill and brought them to the jail here. Chief Logan is now on Muswill's trail near Irwin. All the men are Italians. The dead miner was 26 years old and unmarried. Domigkini is 29, Sismondo 26 and Muswill 20. Before they had been told why they were arrested Domigkini and Sismondo assured the officers that Sopino had done the shooting, ignorant of the fact that Sopino was alive. No less than 12 similar crimes have occurred in the valley between Bellevernon and Courtney in the last year. In several cases the murderers were never captured.

SOCIETY

MID-SUMMER is the season when plans are formulated for the early autumn weddings. September this year has been selected for several of the most interesting of the weddings which are the result of engagements announced during the winter and spring.

Among them will be that of Miss Vardie Hemingway Marshall and Dr. Russell Bigler Armor, which will be held late in September at the home of the bride's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Vardie Marshall, in St. James street, Shadyside, and will be an evening affair. There will be a group of maids and groomsmen and the wedding will be the occasion for the earlier return to the city of a portion of society.

Miss Marshall is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Vardie Marshall and has been one of the most popular young women in her circle since her debut a few seasons ago. She was educated at an eastern school and was introduced very soon after her return from school. She is a member of two families which have been prominent in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia—the Vardies and the Marshalls. Dr. Armor is a son of Maj. W. C. Armor of Harrisburg and until recently made his home there. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and of the Hahnemann Medical college. After his graduation from the medical college he came to Pittsburgh and settled in Crafton, where he has been following his profession.

Hetzel-Kantner.

A quiet wedding was held in Somerset, Pa., on Tuesday evening of last week, the bride being Miss Lila B. Hetzel, the daughter of the late George Hetzel, the distinguished Pittsburgh artist. The bridegroom was William H. Kantner, a prominent young business man of Somerset. Mr. and Mrs. Kantner are now taking an extended wedding trip through the west and will be away a couple of months. When they return they will make their home in Somerset, where Mr. Kantner is engaged in the real estate business.

The bride inherited some of her father's talent with the brush and has also become known as an illustrator for the magazines. After the death of Mr. Hetzel the family left Pittsburgh and located in Somerset. Mrs. Kantner received some of her instruction in art outside of her father's studio, being a pupil at the Pittsburgh School of Design for Women.

CHAUTAUQUA

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 27.—(Special.)—The weather forecast for today said showers and the prediction was verified this afternoon by a heavy downpour.

Dr. Richard Boone lectured on "Education as Growth" and his clever, earnest handling of his subject delighted a number of visiting educators from the eastern part of the state. At the Women's club Mrs. S. S. Frackleton of Chicago gave a brief address on the spirit of arts and crafts movement of the day. Her talk was clear and instructive and her plea for the patronage of the home artist was very earnest.

At the devotional hour Dr. George M. Boynton spoke on "A Sufficient Motive for Missions." His plea for mission workers appealed very strongly to his audience. Dr. Homer J. Stuntz was one of the most interesting lecturers of mission week and lectured to a thoroughly appreciative audience this morning on "Protestantism in the Philippines."

Miss Marie Shedlock of London, England, gave a pleasing talk on "Subject Matter to Seek in Story Telling." Charles Temple spoke in the civic conference on "Preparation of the Printed Matter for Club and Improvement Work."

At the kindergarten this afternoon popularity of the numbers of the program was shown by the large audience which gathered long before the appointed hour. The new soloists for the remainder of the season, Mrs. Beatrice Plummer, soprano; Edwin Douglass, tenor, and George Downing, bass, received a hearty welcome.

Dr. Lincoln Culley lectured on "Stevenson's Children's Garden of Verses" and was as entertaining as usual. Later in the evening the Chautauqua Dramatic club repeated the performance of Monday evening by presenting "The Sad Shepherd."

One policeman was left in the borough to see that all the doors had been properly locked. One of the features was a baby show, in which a score of infants were entered. Burgess F. W. Pirl was selected to award the prize, but after a thorough inspection, in which he was assisted by the proud mothers of the contestants, the judge deemed it wise to reserve his decision.

TOOTHSOME DISH MADE OF SHARK

It Is Recommended to Fish Epicures by Atlantic City Lecturer.

LATE ARRIVALS AT THE SHORE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 27.

That sharks will in all probability eventually become a valued addition to the fish diet of the piscatorial epicure was one of the noteworthy statements made by Dr. H. M. Smith of Washington, D. C., in a paper read at today's session of the thirty-third annual meeting of the American Fisheries society now being held in Young's hotel, this city. Dr. Smith, who is a deputy United States fish commissioner, has just returned from a trip to Japan, where he has been making a close study of the fishes in the waters surrounding the islands and the methods practiced by the yellow-skinned disciples of Ike Walton in catching them.

Relative to the toothsome shark, Dr. Smith said that large quantities of a certain variety of that fish are sold there. The native cook has a recipe for serving the shark in a style that peculiarly appeals to the Japanese palate, and is relished by Americans who have overcome their repugnance so far as to taste of it. The sea surrounding the chrysanthemum kingdom abounds in many varieties of fish which are unknown to us, and which, being edible, it would be well to transplant, so to speak, to this side of the Pacific. The subject of Dr. Smith's paper was "Japan, the Paramount Fishery Nation."

Several narrow escapes from drowning have been reported from in front of the Hotel Windsor, and the life guards have had to keep a very watchful eye on bathers in that vicinity. The trouble, it is said, is largely due to the jetty there, which forms an eddy. The life guards have placed a flag in the most dangerous spot to warn bathers, as the eddy has formed a hole 16 feet deep.

TAX BILLS INTRODUCED IN THE LEGISLATURE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHARLESTON, W. VA., July 27.—The compromise tax measure were introduced into both houses of the legislature today, and referred to the finance committee. Senator Campbell, Democrat, of Jefferson, offered a resolution providing for the immediate consideration of the tax bills as originally drawn and recommended by the tax commission, and introduced at the last session, declaring for the taxation of coal, oil and gas along with other reforms. The resolution went over until tomorrow.

Preceding the introduction of the tax bills the joint resolution embodying the constitutional amendment providing that the legislature may abolish the state tax and state school tax, was introduced and advanced to its first reading. This amendment must be adopted within the next eight days, as the law requires it to be published for 90 days prior to the election at which it is to be voted on. To adopt this amendment it is necessary to get some Democratic votes in the house, and it is probable the members of the minority will use their advantage to have other legislation shaped as they wish.

FILIPINOS MAKING GAS.

Employ an Ingenious Method by Which Native Cocoanut Oil Is Used.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—An ingenious method employed in the Philippines to secure an adequate gas supply is reported to the bureau of insular affairs by the Philippine bureau of government laboratories. This scheme is to slowly feed cocoanut oil, a native product, into strong cast iron retorts, after the latter are brought to a red heat in furnaces. This produces a very high quality of illuminating gas, free from smoke and tar.

This Philippine report also shows that the struggle waged by the bureau of laboratories against rinderpest, which threatened to exterminate the draft animals on the islands, has been successful. The veterinarians now have about 75 animals available to furnish serum for inoculating non-immune herds.

A great demand for vaccine virus also is announced. Until the advent of the Americans no systematic efforts ever had been made to vaccinate the Philippine people. The islands now are declared to be practically free from the plague as a result. it is said, of the intelligent employment of a plague prophylactic furnished the board of health in sufficient quantities. The biological laboratory is investigating human diseases and is preparing a work on a method of protective inoculation against Asiatic cholera.

BIG FIRE AT CRESTAS.

Ten Houses Are Burned With Loss of About $15,000.

Fire completely destroyed a row of 10 four-room houses at Crestas, North Versailles township, early yesterday morning. On this there was $9,000 insurance.

Owing to the entire absence of fire protection the attempts to fight the blaze were of no avail, although the few people living in the neighborhood did the best they could with a bucket brigade.

GEN. BELL DISSATISFIED.

Fears Withdrawl of Military Rule in Cripple Creek Is Unwise.

DENVER, COL., July 27.—Adjt.-Gen. Sherman M. Bell has expressed dissent from the opinion of Gov. Peabody that the Cripple Creek district is sufficiently pacified to justify the withdrawal of the national guard.

"I look for a clash, now that military rule is ended," said he.

"I have called off the militia," said Gov. Peabody, "now let the unions do the proper thing and call off the strike."

William D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, said today: "The calling off of the militia has not the slightest logical bearing upon the proposition to call off the strike."

HAMILTON AVENUE OPENING.

Extension of the Thoroughfare May Result in Litigation.

There may be litigation over the opening of Hamilton avenue, from Fifth to Penn avenues. The viewers have completed their work up to the point where the schedule of damages and benefits is prepared and a day fixed for hearing exceptions. L. B. D. Reese, one of the viewers, says that the chief clerk of the bureau of viewers, was requested, sometime ago, to do this work and has so far neglected to comply with the request. He says Director Bigelow may be taken into court to compel him to act.

The director says that the benefits assessed are entirely too high and that the city will not pay them. In his opinion it will either be a case of fighting the ordinance or repealing the ordinance providing for the opening of the avenue.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed conterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

RUNNING DOWN COUNTERFEITERS

Second Member of Alleged Gang Which Operates in Pittsburgh Is Arrested.

TO BE TRIED IN THIS CITY

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27.

With the arrest in New York yesterday by agents of the United States secret service the second member of the gang of the counterfeiters that operated in Pittsburgh and Allegheny during the early part of the year has been rounded up. One man supposed to have been implicated in the business is still at large.

Last December reports reached the secret service bureau here that counterfeit $1 bills were being circulated in St. Louis. No sooner had the officers of the government gone to work on the case than the gang left off work there and were next heard of in Pittsburgh and Allegheny. Secret Service Officer Walsh went on the trail and enlisted the assistance of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny police forces.

Once again the trail was reported to Superintendent McQuaide of the Pittsburgh detective bureau that a gang of counterfeiters were working at 712 Rebecca street, Wilkinsburg. Officers were sent to the house, but their coming had been anticipated and the gang had flown. The government officials had grounds for suspecting that the men who were working at this business were Alfred Satow of Chicago and J. D. Hutchinson who made his home in Allegheny. The dies, ink and paraphernalia that they found in the Wilkinsburg house confirmed the suspicion, but Satow had left no trail behind and Hutchinson could not at once be found. A watch was kept on the house, however, and Hutchinson returned there and was arrested. He is now under indictment in the United States court.

Satow and another partner were traced finally to Cincinnati and Louisville, where they managed to dispose of a large amount of counterfeit money. At Louisville they passed a bogus $1 bill on a man who discovered it in time and at the point of a gun forced them to redeem it. But they escaped arrest and could not be found until a week ago, when Satow was discovered working for an engraving company in New York. A watch was kept on him by the secret service men to ascertain if he was doing any illegal work on the outside, but evidently he was not. Yesterday he was arrested and he will be taken back to Pittsburgh for trial. He has consented to go without requisition.

Satow is an expert photographer. He was arrested in Chicago on January 3, 1902, for making and having in his possession counterfeit $2 bills. He was convicted and sent to the Milwaukee house of correction for 18 months. He had been out but a short time when he started in again to beat the government. It is now thought that the gang got rid of more than $200,000 worth of counterfeits in and around Pittsburg. They have recently confined their attention to the manufacture of the stuff and turned out a large quantity before they were obliged to flee.

BAND AND ROUTE FOR LABOR DAY SELECTED

The Workingmen Will Traverse Streets of Both Cities on Their Special Holiday.

The Second Brigade band will head the Labor day parade this year. The band was formerly connected with the Second brigade of the state militia, but when it was decided the musicians must be members of the militia demonstrations withdrew from the military organization. It was formerly known as the Cathedral band.

The entire executive board was appointed by the general committee to meet the officials of the United Mine workers to ascertain why they refuse to participate in the Labor day demonstration. The miners have always been accorded special honors at the past demonstrations.

T. J. SCULLY,
Candidate for Marshal of Building Trades Division.

One year President Patrick Dolan was elected chairman of the demonstration. The following year Secretary William Dodds was elected treasurer of the event, and last year Vice President Uriah Bellingham was elected division marshal. In addition to this, the anthracite miners were donated $1,000 from the Labor day fund.

This year they decided not to turn out, claiming as their reasons the miners cannot stand a march over the city streets when they are used to working in cool atmosphere underground. While evidently the reasons are valid, the miners will hold a Labor day parade in McKeesport and hold a carnival at Monongahela City on Labor day.

The parade will start at 10 o'clock in the morning over the following route:

From Avenue 9, Sixth street, across the bridge to Federal street, to Ohio street, to Sandusky, to Seventh, across bridge to Liberty, to Fifth avenue, to Grant, to Diamond, to Wood, to the corner of Stevenson, where Chief Marshal Frank Curran and aids will review.

T. J. Scully of the plasterers announced himself a candidate for the division marshalship of the building trades division. The election will take place next Sunday afternoon in the Knights of Labor hall, 253 Smithfield street.

THEATRICAL SEASON OPENS ON SATURDAY

Bijou Will Have Minstrels, and the Academy Will Follow With Burlesque.

The coming engagement of W. E. Nankeville's Haverly's Minstrels at the Bijou next Saturday night and the following week, will be the opening of the season at this playhouse. Minstrelsy, as presented by this organization, is always sure of a welcome from the average theatergoer. The company, numbering nearly half a hundred people, represents the premiers from the front ranks of minstrelsy and is headed by the "mint-tred man, Billy Van, or as he has been appropriately surnamed, "The Salesman of Smiles."

Mr. Van receives the highest salary of any single burnt cork artist in the profession today, and will, as usual, present a brand new routine of jests and songs of which he is the author. Second in prominence in the comedy line is "Beau Brummell," Jimmy Wall, known as the new Billy Emerson and a most finished exponent of artistic minstrelsy. In addition there are ten other comedians, including Eddie Mazier and Herbert Swift, all of whom have brilliant records as fun experts. The imperial burlesquers is the selection of Manager Williams for the opening attraction of his Liberty Street theater, which opens its doors for the coming season next Monday afternoon. The Imperials this season is the best show that Mr. Williams has ever put on the road, and includes such performers as the Washburn sisters, the Musical Belles, George H. Diamond, Flossie Coy, Emmonds, Emmerson and Emmonds and McRae and Wyatt, with that really clever Irish comedian, M. J. Kelly, in the title role of the two operettas.

The trolley parks will have band concerts on Sunday, in addition to which there will be a number of special concert features. A minstrel band will play at Calhoun park, both afternoon and evening. It is the organization belonging to the Haverly minstrels, Joan P. Wilson, the extemporaneous singer, will be one of the soloists, and the Dixie Troubadours will sing. The Braddock Library band will play at Oakwood and during the intermissions Walter Wallace Edwards, the colored fire cartoonist, will address the audiences. The Fourteenth Regiment band will be at Southern park, and what it will be the Lone Star quartet, Kennywood's Sunday concerts will be given by the Homestead Library band. Harry Mayon and Pearl's minstrels will be at Southern park all next week. There are Edward Rentz, comedy wire artist; Soraker brothers, soft and wooden shoe dancers; the Elliott Comedy Four and the team of Marion and Pearl.

Millvale Pastor Goes to Detroit.

The Rev. Father Peter Zell, assistant pastor of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church, left last night for Detroit, where he will act as assistant in St. Mary's church for four months. Father Zell escaped death in the Mt. Pelee disaster, where he was professor in the college of the Fathers of the Holy Ghost, by leaving a few days before the eruption.

"WAR SCARE" MARKETS ON TWO CONTINENTS

Sharp Decline in English Consols in London, General Declines in Wall Street and a Big Advance in Wheat in Chicago.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The markets yesterday were under the domination of "war scares." Not that anyone seriously believed in the probability of a conflict between Great Britain and Russia, or that the conflict in the far east will embroil any other nations; but the markets reflected the possibilities of the situation. The first news that greeted Wall street was the announcement of a drop of ¾ per cent in English consols. This security is regarded as the most sensitive barometer of foreign financial and political conditions. It has been declining by sixteenths and eighths for several days past, and when on Tuesday the loss reached ½ per cent net for the day the fluctuation was regarded as significant. Yesterday's break of a half point, which represents a decline of 2¾ per cent from the high point of the month, immediately established the tone for the general markets, including wheat, which was higher in Liverpool. Lord Balfour's statement in parliament that the action of Russia in sinking the Knight Commander constituted a breach of international law, and the formal protest filed at Washington on behalf of the owners of the Arabia, an American-owned vessel, were much commented upon as reflecting the feeling in high political circles.

This was the situation before the hour for beginning business on the New York stock exchange. London prices for American securities were lower for everything with the exception of United States Steel preferred, which was slightly higher. London bought 2,000 shares Steel preferred at the opening, which accounted for the fractional rally to 61¼, but foreigners were credited with selling 20,000 shares of other stocks, and the railroad list steadily declined from the opening. The street was very bearish on steel preferred and sold the stock vigorously, causing a 2-point decline to 59¼. The common stock declined to 11⅛, and the sinking fund bonds to 77⅛. A slight rally occurred, but all issues again sold off to the lowest point of the day, the preferred touching 59, and the close was at about the lowest. The minor iron and steel stocks were also affected and closed lower. The principal argument of the bears against the Steel report was the falling off of 350,000 tons in the amount of orders on hand at the beginning of July as compared with three months ago.

Pennsylvania was again naturally affected by the weakness in the industrials and sold off to 118¾. Baltimore & Ohio, the Erie, Reading and Norfolk & Western all declined to ¾ per cent, and despite not ratifying news at the close the grangers were as weak as any of the others, and St. Paul, Atchison, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific closed at losses ranging from 1 to 1½ per cent. The close was heavy at or near the lowest prices of the day. London rubles reported that that market closed demoralized.

It is probable that if there had been no war news to disturb foreign markets prices here would have reacted in a leisurely manner for the next two weeks. All the good news was out and discounted, the Steel dividend, if any had been entertained, had been removed. On a natural reaction the public would no doubt have become purchasers. It is not so clear that the public will come in now on the decline. There will be a disposition to hold stock until the foreign outlook becomes less threatening and until the corn crop passes through the August period of hot winds. The technical position of the market is not so strong because the slight interruption in the previous advance tended to eliminate the short interest. The temptation of booking orders and turning out iron and steel products is now likely to be relinquished by Wall street and returned where it properly belongs, in Pittsburgh and other manufacturing centers, which have not enthused to the same extent as the stock exchange. The outlook, therefore, favors a quieter market.

Call loan rates closed offered at 1 per cent, the final loan being ¾ per cent. Sterling exchange remains strong, and exports of gold will not be surprising. The stock market, however, paid little or no attention to this possibility yesterday. It is not likely to while the surplus reserves of the New York banks remain so high and the rates for loans so low.

More than half the total sales on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday were in the iron and steel stocks, prices of which averaged lower. Pittsburgh Coal preferred declined to 65¾ and closed offered at 55¾. None of the other coal issues changed hands. Manufacturers Light & Heat declined to 31⅝, but recovered to 32. The close-in Carbon-Walker common was firmer, advancing to 5. Philadelphia Company was a dollar a share lower at 39. Westinghouse Electric declined to 78 and closed at 78⅛ bid. The bank list and bonds were steady and unchanged.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The local stock market yesterday was very narrow, only a dozen securities contributing to the total sales of 2,000 shares stock and $15,000 bonds. The only active stock was Steel preferred, which was in demand at 60 and below. Local sentiment on the stock is conflicting. On the one hand there is a feeling that the corporation has demonstrated its ability to maintain the preferred dividend on a lean period that is not likely to be repeated for years to come. On the other hand the falling off in the amount of orders booked during the quarter, and the slender margin of earnings for the half year, are already responsible for conjecture as to what the next dividend will be.

The Boer war made the world acquainted with the location of the Transvaal, the importance of its gold mines and the resources of South Africa as nothing else would have done. If the stock market falls upon a period of dullness, the seizure of vessels by Russia will also serve to educate the public in the matters of contraband of war and the rights of neutrals than anything else. The subject before the street yesterday was international law, and it was interesting to note that the discussion revealed an unanimously favorable feeling toward Great Britain and Japan. The one fear in relation to Japan is that she will break down financially before she succeeds in driving Russia so far into the interior that event Russia's preponderating weight in money and men would ultimately crush the "little fellow." In financial circles there was a disposition to look upon the sudden and violent rise in sterling exchange this week as being connected with the war situation, rather than with a shortage in exchange caused by bankers anticipating exports of cotton. Should the Bank of England unexpectedly raise its rate of discount at the weekly meeting of the governors today, that event would have a greater effect upon the markets than anything which has happened this month.

The Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent, payable forthwith.

The directors of the Pittsburgh Dry Goods Company have declared a dividend out of the earnings of the last six months of 3½ per cent on the preferred stock, or 1¾ per cent on the common stock, payable August 1.

Schedules of the W. C. Whitney estate estimating it at $21,334,101, were filed in New York yesterday.

Wall street gossip: Traders think that the Gates following is still rather heavily long of stocks, notably Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Union Pacific, Atchison, St. Paul and Louisville & Nashville. The Gates interview on Friday disclosed the leadership of the later advance and the active traders, with the Hoffman house element conspicuous, turned around and hammered the extended bull account. There was very good selling in Union Pacific last week. The stock came from people certain to be well informed, and the sellers say that they are not taking any position until they can get some idea of what the lines are going to do with their stock. There is probably a rather extended short interest in A. C. P. Traders think it is not less than 100,000 shares.

At the meeting of the directors of the pressed Steel Car Company in New York yesterday afternoon the common dividend was continued. The regular quarterly dividends on both the preferred and common stocks were declared. The preferred dividend, 1¾ per cent, will be paid August 23 to stockholders of record at the close of business August 2. The common dividend is payable August 30 to stock of record August 9. Treasurer P. G. Jenks will mail checks.

On call yesterday Bank of Pittsburgh advanced to 155 bid for 50 shares, the highest price yet quoted.

E. P. Frazier of the well-known Chicago house of Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington, is exceedingly hopeful regarding the crops. He said: "The condition of the growing crop of spring wheat continues almost perfect, and the winter wheat harvest is getting pretty well completed. I do not believe that the crop will be over 25,000,000 bushels short of last year. The condition of the growing crop of oats is pretty nearly perfect and harvesting is going on all over the country in a very satisfactory manner. We certainly should raise 100,000,000 more oats than last year." In regard to the corn crop, Mr. Frazier says the Texas yield is estimated at 200,000,000 bushels, as against 140,000,000 bushels last year.

The dividend on United States Steel preferred is payable August 30 to stock of record August 6. Transfer books close on the latter date.

The Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh directors have declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on the common and 3 per cent on the preferred, payable August 15 to stock of record August 5.

The Jefferson and Clearfield Coal and Iron Company declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent on the preferred and the regular annual dividend of 5 per cent on the common, both payable August 15 to stock of record August 5.

The directors of the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company will meet within a few days to act on the quarterly dividend on the preferred stock. It is understood that the usual 1 per cent will be declared. The company's business so far this calendar year has run a little ahead of last year, and this is regarded with satisfaction, in view of the fact that most lines of business for the first half of 1904 have shown decreases as compared with the preceding year.

A Minneapolis dispatch says: "C. E. Wales, vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, has been in Minneapolis conferring with the local capitalist who is a heavy owner of Illinois soft coal lands. A transaction of some importance is thought to be pending.

It is pretty generally expected around the street that the dividend on Erie first preferred will be passed, although this cannot be anything more than mere assumption. In view of the extent of the short interest, those who hold to the belief that the dividend will not be paid are disinclined to sell short.

In Chicago banking sources it is estimated that money is more plentiful, and that for the construction of waterworks, electric roads and other municipal improvements of that sort there is now available ample funds, whereas they were difficult to arrange for a month or so ago. Municipal corporations have no difficulty selling bonds to cover the cost of improvements, and in corroboration of this statement it is learned that a number of contractors are figuring on big jobs to be carried out all over the West. Builders of heavy engines and power machinery, too, report more inquiry than they have had before for many months, all of which is expected to lead up to placing of important contracts.

South Sharon has just awarded $100,000 4½ per cent sewer and street improvement bonds at 105.005.

New York bond houses are beginning to figure on the funding of the short term loans which were floated this year. The maturity of these notes is spread over a period of several years, although a very large share of them mature next year. The notes maturing next year are $10,000,000 Union Pacific, $5,000,000 Rock Island, $5,000,000 New York Central, $50,000,000 Pennsylvania Company, and $30,000,000 Southern Pacific. In 1906 there mature $8,000,000 Missouri Pacific, $4,000,000 Chesapeake & Ohio, $10,000,000 Baltimore & Ohio, $7,270,410 Hocking Valley, $7,500,000 Rock Island and $5,000,000 Frisco. In 1907 there mature $8,160,000 Wabash and $5,000,000 Chicago & Alton notes. In 1909 there mature $15,000,000 Southern Railway notes.

Gross earnings of Missouri Pacific for the third week in July decreased $61,000.

Gross earnings of Denver & Rio Grande for the third week in July decreased $51,000.

Net earnings of Wheeling & Lake Erie for June decreased $16,639.

Foreign Money Markets.

LONDON, July 27.—Consols for money, 87⅜; consols for the account, 87 13-16; money, 3 per cent; the rate of discount for short bills is 2 13-16@3 per cent; the rate of discount for three months' bills is 3 per cent. Money was in keener demand in the market today. Discounts were firm at a shade under the Bank of England's rate of discount. A further hardening was repressed somewhat by the rise in continental exchanges. There was some talk of the rate of exchange making further advances. Gold is coming here from New York and in the meantime the Bank of England is buying the moderate quantities offered on the continent and elsewhere. Business on the stock exchange was dull all round in consequence of the nervousness caused by the political situation and the rumors of coming trouble in the market. There was little doing in the investment department. Consols led the general depression, owing to the above contributory reasons. Americans opened weak, showed some resistance to the general tendency, but recovered only a fraction of the early loss. The United States steel dividend was a factor in the firmness, notwithstanding the disappointing statement. The threatened spread of the meat strike caused an uncertain tendency and prices closed weak. Foreigners were heavy. Imperial Japanese government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 95⅝. The amount of bullion taken into the Bank of England today on balance was £106,000.

PARIS, July 27.—Stocks on the bourse today were depressed throughout. Rio Tintos lost 4 points. Russian Imperial 4s closed at 92.70 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 504. Three per cent rents, 97 francs 57½ centimes for the account. Exchange on London, 20 francs 26 centimes for checks.

BERLIN, July 27.—Trading on the boerse today was sluggish and prices were weak. Americans were depressed upon yesterday's New York advices.

New York Money Market.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Close—Money on call very easy; 1 per cent; closing bid, ¾ per cent; offered at 1 per cent; time loans steadier; 60 and 90 days, 2½@2¾ per cent; six months, 3½@3¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 3¾@4¼ per cent; sterling exchange firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4 87.95 for 60-day bills; posted rates, $4 85½@4 86 and $4 88@4 88½; commercial bills, $4 84⅞; silver, 58¼c; Mexican dollars, 45¾c; government bonds weak; railroad bonds easy.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $148,888,459; gold, $44,076,001; silver, $31,165,389; United States notes, $15,009,031; treasury notes of 1890, $36,107; national bank notes, $16,912,321; total receipts this day, $1,508,862; total receipts this month, $38,670,217; total receipts this year, $515,678,271; total expenditures this day, $1,180,000; total expenditures this month, $50,340,000; total expenditures this year, $553,340,000; deposits in national banks, $120,188,650.

GOOD SENTIMENT IS WIDESPREAD

Confidence in the Future Marks the Iron and Steel Markets.

INDICATIONS OF BUSY FALL

The confidence in the return of better times in the iron and steel industry, which has been apparent for some weeks past, is steadily growing stronger and the best-informed men in the business are sharing in the belief. The developments of this industry in July and August are of necessity small, inasmuch as these are regularly the slowest months of the year. Such developments as are taking place, however, are of a favorable nature.

An instance of this is the resumption of work on Tuesday morning at the Shenango plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company after a long idleness. Where furnaces are resuming they are running on actual orders and the accumulation of stocks is not being allowed.

In the finished lines, specifications are undoubtedly coming in far more freely than heretofore. The buying is by no means yet have the swing of prosperity to which the manufacturers had grown accustomed, but the totals of delivered orders is not insignificant.

The report of the first month's business shortsheet what had been expected. Earnings as low as $18,000,000 had been forecasted, and the fact that they amounted to $19,800,000 is believed to be highly satisfactory. The report showed also that the volume of new business in June exceeded that of May. That July will exceed June seems certain.

Billet Price Seems Open.

Considerable discrepancy exists in the prices of pig iron and billets as told by different interests. For No. 2 foundry the quoted price ranges from $12.25 to $12.85. Pittsburgh, not Bessemer ? is claimed that as high as $12 75 to $13, Pittsburgh, can be had, although a manufacturer offered several days ago for the property of the First German Evangelical Lutheran church on the hump. The tender is reported to have been made through the office of Warren & Gray, but the identity of the would-be buyer is carefully concealed. The price offered figures at the rate of $1,875 a front foot or $12 80 a square foot, and was rejected at once by the trustees without having it considered by the congregation. The property has a frontage of 120 feet on the east side of Sixth avenue, between Fifth and Wylie avenues, and a depth of 147 feet. It is situated less than a square from the jail and directly opposite Ross street. Several times within a year it has been reported that the property was about to be sold, but the trustees are holding out for $250,000, and as said, and have not seriously considered any offers made up to this time. Although the lot is a large one it has no rear or side outlet, and in its location would be unavailable for many purposes for which a property of that value might be used to advantage if it were in another section of the city. The Pennsylvania railroad tunnel crosses one corner of the lot and it is believed that for whom the property was recently made were getting the site for a big warehouse. As the tunnel would be exposed at this point if the hump should ever be cut down it would be a very desirable location for warehouses.

Clearing Site for Repository.

Architects Rutan & Russell have awarded the contract to Howard Brothers for razing the old buildings at 115-119 Seventh street, where the Gerber Carriage Company will build its big repository. The site, which was purchased a few weeks ago from Wilbur Shenk and F. F. Nicola, measures 100x160 feet on the east side of the street, adjoining the property of the Logan-Gregg Hardware Company. The building will be a six-story structure of slow-burning construction, and will cost approximately $100,000. The site will be cleared by August 10, when bids will be taken on the building.

Bids are also being taken by Architects Rutan & Russell on the extensive improvements and remodeling of the McClintock building in Market street, near Fifth avenue, which Rosenbaum & Co. will occupy. The changes will cost about $60,000.

The Swissvale board of education is inviting competitive plans for the new school house which will be erected on Charles and Milton streets and Braddock avenue. Wilkins place. An architect will be selected next week. The building, which will accommodate the children in Wilkins place as well as many living on the outskirts of Edgewood, Wilkinsburg and the Twenty-second ward, will contain 12 rooms and cost at least $50,000.

Architect S. T. McClarren is receiving estimates on the church to be erected for the First Presbyterian congregation of Carton in Station street.

Council to Consider Widening.

At the next meeting of the Oakmont borough council Monday night the matter of widening and macadamizing the Hulton road from Hulton station to the property of the Oakmont Country club will be taken up. As soon as reliable estimates of the cost can be secured a canvass will be made of the citizens of Oakmont to get their opinion on the matter. The length of the proposed improvement is about 1,000 yards and it is proposed to extend the road still farther to connect with the Saltsburg macadamized road. The golf links and tennis grounds of the Country club are now nearly completed and by October 1 the $30,000 club house on Oakmont Heights will be ready for occupancy.

ALLEGED ST. LOUIS BOODLER WORKING IN CIGAR FACTORY

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—Chief of Police Kiely has information that Adolph Madera, a former member of the house of delegates, who is wanted in St. Louis on indictments charging bribery in connection with the suburban and city lighting bill deals, is employed in a cigar factory in Denver, Col. The authorities will try to secure Madera's extradition.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS WILL MEET IN ST. LOUIS

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 27.—H. C. McGrew, commander of the United Spanish war veterans, announced today that he would leave this week for St. Louis to arrange for the first annual reunion, which he said would be held there instead of at Indianapolis, on account of the failure to get stop-over privileges from the railroads. New York city and Buffalo were applicants for the encampment.

REPORT IS FAVORABLE ON BOLL WEEVIL DESTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, July 27.Secretary Wilson today received the report of C. P. Cook, who reached Washington today from Texas, where he has been conducting experiments with the Guatemalan ant. Mr. Cook brought with him several colonies of the ants, which will be kept here for experiment. His report is favorable to the ant as destructive of the cotton boll weevil.

VEGETABLES ARE SLOW; TOMATOES ARE CHEAP

Cantaloupes Are in Good Demand—New Hay Is Grading Better.

Produce business was dull yesterday especially the street trade. Sales were light in every line.

There is a good call for cantaloupes now. The stock is coming from Texas and Indiana; Floridas and Californias are out of the market for this season. Colorado cantaloupes, the most popular, will commence to arrive in about two weeks. Prices of stock on hand are lower. Watermelons are moving freely from Georgia and North Carolina but the Florida supply has been exhausted here. Four cars of cantaloupes and five cars of watermelons were the medium arrivals yesterday. Potatoes keep firm, arrivals yesterday having been but three cars, making a total of about 30 cars on hand at present. Tomatoes are declining rapidly. New Marietias are on the market and their prices are way down. Lettuce is in scant supply at present and prices on the home raised are up. Green corn is arriving in good quantity and is wanted more.

Chickens are moving freely, now, and the local market is using up the old stock alone. Demand for most kinds of poultry is good. There were no changes in the grocery line. Flour holds firm; jobbers are selling below what they would be justified in selling freely considering the wheat situation, this is probably due to the fact that they want to clean up the old wheat flour before the new commences to arrive. There was no difference in the sugar situation though an advance is generally looked for all this week. The new hay that is coming in now is of much better quality than that last week and buyers are taking to it with more confidence. New No. 1 timothy is quoted below for the first time. Oats are in fair demand and the corn market continues very firm. Millfeed is ruling as high as ever. Receipts continue light and likely will for some time because farmers are so busy with new crops.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Receipts bulletined: Pennsylvania, 11 cars of hay, 9 cars of corn, 4 cars of oats, 5 cars of feed; Baltimore & Ohio, 2 cars hay, 12 cars of corn; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 5 cars of hay, 2 cars of oats.

Dealers charge an advance of $3 00 per ton on hay and millfeed, and 5 cents per bushel on grain from warehouses in less than carload lots.

POSTOFFICE SAFE BLOWERS GOT VERY SMALL REWARD

A supply of postage stamps and $10 in money was the reward of safe-blowers at Midway, three miles from McDonald, on the Panhandle railroad, early yesterday morning. The village postoffice safe was looted and the explosion, which caused great excitement in the community, wrecked the safe and postoffice building. Entrance was gained by forcing the front door.

Tariff Policy Gaining.

LONDON, July 27.—The Liberals gained a seat at Owestry, West Shropshire, in the bye-election yesterday. The fight was mainly on the tariff question, the Liberals favoring a protective tariff. A. H. Bright is the new member. The Liberal gain is 1,473 votes.

WAR CLOUDS ADD IMPETUS TO WHEAT

Strong Domestic Cash Market Also a Factor in Upward Trend.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, July 27.—European war clouds and strong domestic cash markets today gave renewed impetus to the upward trend of speculative share values here. At the close September wheat showed a gain of 1¾c. Corn is up ¼c, oats are a shade higher, provisions are practically unchanged.

Under the stimulus of a fresh burst of bullishness at Liverpool, and the unsettled conditions of the political situation the wheat market here opened strong, the initial quotations on September being up ¼@⅝c to ⅝@¾c at 88⅝@89¼c. From the start there was an active general demand. A sharp decline in consols owing to the grave aspect of affairs between England and Russia caused very strong wheat markets abroad and in consequence foreigners were good buyers here. There was also a better export demand for wheat and flour. Further reports were received of additional loss in wheat in the southwest and advances from the northwest were far from encouraging. Complaints of rust were general. On the whole the bulls had everything their own way and there was no selling of importance except by longs who took profits. Prices at one time reached yesterday's closing figures on such realizing sales. Several sold off to 88⅝@88¾c. Thereafter, however, the market advanced rapidly with only slight recessions. Reports of threshing returns from Missouri and Michigan were very disappointing and cash markets everywhere were exceptionally strong. To cap the climax, word was received from Kansas City that an elevator man there had sold Kansas wheat to go to California. Primary receipts were fairly large, but the urgent demand more than offset this influence. The high point on September was reached at 90¼c. A slight reaction occurred just before the close. Final figures on September were at 89⅝@89¾c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 33,300 bushels. Primary receipts were 760,200 bushels, compared with 571,600 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 219 cars against 211 cars last week and 253 cars a year ago.

As a result of the decided strength of wheat a firm feeling prevailed in the corn pit. Local traders were inclined to sell corn on the favorable crop news, but the action of wheat prevented any liberal offerings. Primary receipts were fairly large and the cash demand rather slow. On the whole, the volume of business was light. September opened ¼@¾c higher at 49⅜@49¾c; sold between 49½@49¾c and 50c, and closed at 49¾c. Local receipts were 173 cars, with 32 of contract grade.

There was fair buying of oats by commission houses on the strength of wheat, but offerings from pit traders were of sufficient quantity to hold the market about steady. The inquiry for the cash article was rather slow and this had a tendency to restrict interest in speculative trading. September opened a shade higher at 32⅜c, ranged between 33⅛@33¼c and 33½c, and closed at 33⅜c. Local receipts were 61 cars.

Pending a settlement of the stock yards strike the provisions market was practically lifeless. A small demand from pit traders with only light offerings caused a firm undertone. September pork and ribs were each up 2½c at the close, final figures being $12 85 and $7 52½, respectively. Lard was unchanged at $6 50.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 74 cars; corn, 242 cars; oats, 50 cars; hogs, 15,000 head.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at an advance of 5 points in response to steady European markets, the continued steadiness of Brazilian holders and a scattering demand apparently from outside sources through Wall street commission houses. Trading was more than ordinarily active owing largely to continued switching from the near to the late positions, which, however, was completed without any material change in prices. The market closed steady at a net advance of 5@10 points. Sales were reported of 83,250 bags, including August, 6@7c; September, 6.10c; December, 6.40c; March, 6.85@6.90c. BIG OFFER FOR CHURCH ON HUMP

Trustees of First German Evangelical Lutheran Church Declined $225,000.

BIG BUILDING DOWNTOWN

That a few big buyers are still in the field is shown by the occasional and rather sensational offers made for downtown property. The last of these that has leaked out was the offer of $225,000 submitted a few days ago for the property of the First German Evangelical Lutheran church on the hump. The tender is reported to have been made through the office of Warren & Gray, but the identity of the would-be buyer is carefully concealed. The price offered figures at the rate of $1,875 a front foot or $12 80 a square foot, and was rejected at once by the trustees without having it considered by the congregation. The property has a frontage of 120 feet on the east side of Sixth avenue, between Fifth and Wylie avenues, and a depth of 147 feet. It is situated less than a square from the jail and directly opposite Ross street. Several times within a year it has been reported that the property was about to be sold, but the trustees are holding out for $250,000, and as said, and have not seriously considered any offers made up to this time. Although the lot is a large one it has no rear or side outlet, and in its location would be unavailable for many purposes for which a property of that value might

WM. ROSEBURG SUED BY WIFE

Martha Roseburg Seeks to Recover $40,000 Under a Marriage Agreement.

E. M. FERGUSON'S WILL FILED

Martha Roseburg has entered suit against her husband, William Roseburg, to recover $40,000 alleged to be due as interest on $100,000. The statement avers that on April 9, 1894, the litigants entered into a written agreement by which he was to pay her the interest on $100,000 at 5 per cent. On April 12, 1894, they were married, and she says she is now his lawful wife.

Of the interest due she says he paid $16,000 and that to May 1, 1904, a balance of $40,000 became due. The latter amount, it is averred, has been frequently demanded of the defendant, but he has failed to pay any portion of it. Attached to the statement is a copy of the alleged agreement, the preamble of which is as follows:

"That, whereas, a marriage contract will shortly be entered into between William Roseburg of the city of Pittsburgh, county of Allegheny and state of Pennsylvania, and Martha Owens of the city, county and state aforesaid; and, whereas, it has been mutually agreed by and between the parties to said contract that the said William Roseburg for and in consideration of love and affection and other good causes and considerations him thereunto moving, shall settle upon the said Martha Owens the sum of $100,000 for and during her natural life, provided she shall survive the said William Roseburg, with interest thereon to be paid her, the said Martha Owens, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable quarterly from the first day of May, 1894."

The remainder of the agreement is an agreement on his part to pay her the interest in quarter annual payments, and provides that in the event of her death occurring before his than the $100,000 settlement ceases and is terminated.

The will of the late Edmund M. Ferguson has been probated and makes provisions for his estate, the value of which is not estimated. It is, however, shown to be worth millions. The bequests are few, two trusts being created of the estate, with unlimited power being given the trustees. The decedent's brother, Walton Ferguson. The residuary legatees are the decedent's widow and four children, who are to share in the proportions fixed by the intestate laws. In the bequests in the will are:

"I give to Mrs. Nellie Wallace, a member of my household, the sum of $500, because of her long and faithful service.

"To Miss Annie L. Robinson I likewise give $500. To Frank Eisel, my coachman, and Lizzie Eisel, his wife, I give $50 each. To Thomas Ford, my butler, I give the sum of $100."

After making the above bequests, the decedent directs that all his right and interest in Fishers Island, Suffolk county, New York, the islands which he owned equally with his brother, Walton, with steamboats, telegraph and telephone lines, live stock and other appurtenances used in the management of the island, be left in trust with Walton. The latter is to use his own judgment and discretion in the management of the trust, serve without bond and determine the question of reinvesting a portion of the income, paying the balance to the residuary legatee.

At the death of Walton he is to be succeeded as trustee by decedent's son, William S.

A second trust is made of the property in the Second ward, in Second, Third and Fourth avenues, which is owned equally by the brothers. Walton is also made trustee of this and vested with about the same power as he is in the first trust. The income is to be paid to the family, and at the death of the brother the trustee is to divide the property is to go to the residuary legatees. The latter are the widow, Josephine E. Ferguson, and children, John M. and William S. Ferguson, and Martha E. and Nellie M. Ferguson.

The inventory of the personality of Joseph B. Beswell, deceased, has been filed, showing an appraisement of $56,330 49, the largest items being holdings of stock in Boggs & Buhl, valued at $50,000.

Notices were posted in quarter sessions court yesterday that the argument list would be taken up by the court on Monday, August 1. The list contains less than a dozen cases, most of them being unimportant. In two of these cases the defendants were charged with murder and in one was convicted of the crime in the first degree.

Charles Miles, Charles Jackson and Walter Obey, colored, are those convicted. They were tried for killing John Kluzor of Leetsdale, early in the year, in an attempt to rob him.

The other cases are those of Harry and Louis Americus, white, and David Ross, colored, convicted of voluntary manslaughter for the death of Otto Hall, who was struck on the head with a brick during a quarrel with the defendants in Crawford street. He died two hours later at the Mercy hospital from a fractured skull.

W. D. Shannon has instituted proceedings against Thomas A. Watkins to restrain the latter from disposing of certain bonds and asking for a receiver for the same. The plaintiff avers the defendant is indebted to him in the sum of $26,471 25 on a note, long overdue.

In June last he began proceedings in West Virginia to collect, and summoned the Westvelt & Tompkins Company as garnishee. Watkins, it is alleged, was the promoter and financial backer of the railroad, and to secure him, for amounts advanced, said to be about $100,000, gave him a $300,000 bond and stock. The latter is worthless, it is alleged, and it is alleged, Watkins is about to sell them.

The following executions were issued yesterday: S. Rhodes & Co. vs. Schaffer & Co., $2,102 02; same vs. same, $717 55; Conrad Ripter vs. Ada Harsch et al, $272; W. S. Foster vs. Thomas J. Fitzel, $151 80; A. Tilly vs. Louis Lichenge, $51.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in the United States district court by Joseph Miller, doing business as Joseph Miller & Son, of Wilmerding. He gives his liabilities as $3,415 26, with assets of $1,283 72.

A libel was filed in the United States district court by Holmes Harger against the steamboat Dr. Kirk. Libelant alleges there is $159 due him for a month's wages as pilot of the boat. During January, 1903, his license as pilot was suspended, but he alleges he received his pay for this month. The owners of the steamboat claim that while his license was suspended he received no wages and that nothing is due him.

Before Judge Elliott Rodgers in quarter sessions court an indictment charging assault and battery on Charles Farton with a misdemeanor was quashed by the court. The case was disposed of in this manner on account of the indictment being defective. The charge was made against the alderman by Frank Mizajewski, who alleges he went to Barton's office and asked for a transcript of a case in which he was concerned, tendering 50 cents as payment for it. He alleges the alderman refused to give him the transcript, even though it was demanded.

The indictment was defective in as much as it did not state what kind of a case for which the transcript was demanded, and that it did not set forth the amount tendered in payment for the paper, which, it is held, is $1 per folio, or 100 words.

Equity proceedings were instituted yesterday by John R. Flick against G. M. Quiggle to dissolve a partnership between them.

In the divorce suit of Joseph Cole against Rosannon Cole, the wife has filed answer demanding a jury trial. She alleges an agreement existed by which they separated.

In the divorce suits of John B. Bolden against Thomas W. Bolden ad Reuben S. Reed against Susan E. Reed, the masters have filed their reports recommending decrees on the ground of desertion.

Charles Smith and Chas. Ehrens, directors of the Braddock Sanitary Milk Company, have begun equity proceedings against the company.

Detective Is Arrested.

Through the efforts of the district attorney's office, W. J. Manning, formerly a detective for the Anti-Saloon league, was arrested in Jersey City, N. J., yesterday. Word was telegraphed here and requisition papers will be prepared and forwarded to Harrisburg this morning. Manning is wanted on a charge of perjury. Manning had been arrested but gave bail and then left the city.

JAHN'S CHARACTER IS TORN TO SHREDS

One Long Procession of Witnesses Said They Would Not Believe Him on Oath.

LAWYER O'BRIEN TESTIFIED

One continued procession of witnesses for the defense in the case in which Aurora Cupps and Miss Evaline Schopfer are charged with killing C. T. Schopfer, traveled back and forth through criminal court, as they testified they would not believe J. Henry Jahn, the star witness for the commonwealth, on oath. The witnesses were from every section of the county, and of almost every profession. Lawyer after lawyer, business man after business man and even a minister answered emphatically that Jahn's story under oath would have no effect on them.

Jahn sat through it all unperturbed and unflinching, carelessly coaching the district attorney as to this man's grievance and to that. His wife, who corroborated his story, heard the witnesses tear his character to shreds and then some, but it grew monotonous, finally, and she spent some time in the seclusion of the district attorney's office. Linnie Wolford never changed expression.

"They're all knockers," said Jahn to County Detective Robinson, and with that he dismissed it.

The defense put Deputy Coroner Louis C. Huckel on the stand as the first witness yesterday morning. He denied Jahn's statement that he had not been allowed to tell all the story at the inquest. He was only stopped from telling about mortgages and property dealings.

Dr. G. A. Speer, recalled, said he had made an examination of the ground about the porch and baw window, both on the night of the shooting and the next morning. There was no trace of anyone having gone out that way.

What Jahn Told Him.

J. Sedar, an appraiser of Schopfer's estate, testified that Jahn told him, "that —— Schopfer shot himself."

Mrs. Cupps, mother of the accused woman, told a long story about the shooting, but brought out nothing new. She said Schopfer had threatened to commit suicide. On cross-examination, she said Aurora was not out of her sight long enough to have made the confesion alleged by Jahn on the night he named.

Margaret Cupps, a sister of the accused woman, had heard Schopfer say he would commit suicide. Justice Riffle, recalled, had heard Schopfer make the same thing. This was before Mrs. Schopfer rejoined him. W. C. Wright testified that Jahn told him Schopfer had killed himself. George C. Pfeffer testified similarly. B. C. Jacke, stenographer to the district attorney, testified as to Jahn's evidence at the inquest.

Charles A. O'Brien, one of the attorneys for the defense, whom Attorney Jahn's latter, was placed on the stand. He said that Jahn first brought Mrs. Schopfer to his office. When Mrs. Schopfer came from Virginia in December he sent for Jahn. The latter introduced Mrs. Schopfer for going to Mr. O'Brien before she saw him. Jahn refused to make a settlement, saying, "she knows what I know; that settles it." Jahn finally said, "she killed her husband." He made no accusations against Miss Cupps.

Up to this time Jahn had never made any accusations. In October he had referred to having "something up his sleeve" that would prevent her pressing her claims. Mr. O'Brien denied threatening Jahn, of following him to the court house, of threatening to throw him down the elevator shaft, or of telling him he was to be assistant district attorney. He had brought two informations against Jahn for Mrs. Schopfer, one charging attempted blackmail and one charging embezzlement.

Charles W. Ashley, Mr. O'Brien's partner, was present when Jahn made his threats and corroborated Mr. O'Brien. If he remembered right Mr. O'Brien had said "If there is anything in Jahn's accusation, Jahn was a fool to let it out at such a late date."

Schopfer's Last Words.

Joseph Schmerbeck, a hotelkeeper of Undercliff, saw Schopfer about 10 o'clock on July 31. Schopfer was leaving the hotel and told the witness he would never see him again. Schopfer drank pop. He got four bottles and took them out and then got four more and took them out. He was under the influence of liquor, but got none there. Mrs. Cupps and Miss Moser were not in the house.

Michael Schmerbeck, a brother, corroborated this evidence except the conversation which he had not heard. He saw Miss Cupps outside the house, but did not see Miss Moser.

Justice Hugh Simms of Hoboken said he would not believe Jahn under oath. Milton Hays was of a like opinion. He had had some trouble with Jahn over the election of a teacher to an European trip. Jahn got 50 votes, five thousand votes, he said, and Mr. Haymaker smilingly added, "I have lost myself by less than that." John Cable was another who would not believe Jahn under oath.

W. C. Wright was recalled. He testified to Jahn saying he had Miss Moser on his side, and said he would not believe Jahn under oath. On cross-examination he admitted having had trouble with Jahn and being sued. The indictments had never come from the grand jury. They had had trouble over a room he rented and Jahn called him a liar. He said he would make him "chew his words" the first time he met him on the road.

Attorney Robb broke in with: "And the first time you met him was Saturday night, two weeks ago, two days before the day set for this trial, and you did assault him."

Wright denied this emphatically. He said they tried hard to fix it on him and failed. A man who represented himself as a friend of Mr. Robb, but who, the witness declared, came from Jahn's lawyer's office, had been to see him, and he had proved his whereabouts. Mr. Robb could not get this denied, but said he had consulted Jahn. The latter said in an audible voice, "He's the man, all right," and Mr. Robb told him to keep quiet.

William E. Meritz of Hoboken said among his acquaintances Jahn's reputation for truth and veracity was very bad and he would not believe him under oath. Asked as to who he had heard talk of Jahn's reputation, he replied, "the whole town."

Attorney Robb asked him to name a few, but the witness could not recall many special cases, but named several who were later called as witnesses.

R. J. Campbell of Sharpsburg, an agent for the Prudential Insurance Company, said Jahn's reputation was bad. He named many whom he had heard say they would not believe him under oath.

Joseph M. Schock of Hoboken was another who would not believe him on oath. When asked why, he said that Jahn had at one time testified what he (Schock) knew was a lie.

J. W. Wilson, an expressman of 519 Arch street, Allegheny, also had dealings with Jahn and would not believe him.

J. Eilers, a typewriter dealer, formerly located in Fifth avenue, had some dealings with Jahn and could not believe him under any circumstances.

S. S. Burke of Allegheny was placed in hot water by the prosecution. He would not believe Jahn under oath and said he had a bad reputation.

"Is there anyone here in court to belster up your reputation?" asked Mr. Robb. Mr. Robb then asked him how long he had been out of the workhouse, where he had been sent for illegal liquor selling. This was objected to, but the court ruled the jury had a right to know the reputation and character of witnesses.

Attorney George H. Quaill said he would not believe Jahn under oath. Attorney W. T. Treadwell would not go so far as not to believe him under oath, but would want strong corroborative evidence to make him believe he was telling the truth. Attorney J. M. Freedman hardly thought he would believe him under oath, except when strongly corroborated. John A. Dunn, an attorney, had heard of Jahn 10 years ago and the more he heard of him the more doubtful he was that he would not believe him under oath.

William Steel, a druggist of Allegheny, had business dealings with Jahn and could not believe him even under oath.

Henry Braun, a Federal street (Allegheny) music dealer, would not believe him under oath. Attorney Robb said that was due to trouble he had with Jahn over a property deal in which Jahn was to receive a phonograph for selling a piece of property. Braun denied this. He explained that Jahn did not sell the property and that the phonograph had been purchased some time before. When Attorney Robb said that Jahn held an agreement with Braun's name signed to it, Braun said that if his name was one it, Jahn had forged it. "What did you get out of the property deal?" asked Mr. Robb.

The Same as the Others.

"I got the same as all the others," said Braun, "stuck."

E. M. Myers, a barber in the same building in which Jahn had his office, said Jahn's reputation for truth and veracity was very bad. He, too, was asked about a property deal. He explained that he was to purchase a piece of property for $10,250, and Jahn said he could buy it for $10,000. Myers testified that he offered to split the $250 with Jahn if he could make the deal, but it fell through and then Jahn sued him for the amount, with fees added.

Myers' partner, Mr. Dobner, was called and was of the same opinion as others heard. He had heard so much of Jahn that he refused to shave him when he came to his shop. When he went into partnership with Meyer and learned that Jahn was a patron of the shop, he sent his cup and sponge back to him. "Did not you and Jahn have a fight over that occurrence?" asked Mr. Robb, "and did not Jahn kick you?"

"No, and he is not man enough to do so, either," returned Dobner with emphasis.

"I never knew of anyone who did believe him except the district attorney," said Mr. Dobner, and as he left the stand, said: "I'm sorry for you, Mr. Robb."

P. Miller, a harnessmaker of East Ohio street, Allegheny, said Jahn's reputation was bad. "Would he make a set of harness for him?" asked Mr. Robb.

"Yes," replied Miller, "and I would never make another."

Attorney J. Scott Ferguson had known of Jahn for a number of years and was quite decided that his reputation was bad and he could not believe him under oath. Mr. Robb did not cross-examine.

L. H. Miller, an undertaker at Millvale, would not like to believe Jahn's testimony if he had anything coming his way."

Henry Swift of Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, said none had a good word for Jahn. "He swindled me out of a bill of goods," added Mr. Swift.

Among others who testified that they would not believe Jahn under oath were:

The Rev. Peter Klaus, John Autenreith of Federal street, Allegheny; Henry Stavling, superintendent of Allegheny market house; G. C. Pfeiffer, advertising manager for the Leishman-Sher; S. A. Dixon, real estate dealer of Fourth avenue, and a number of newspaper reporters.

Mrs. W. C. Wright of Hoboken was called to the stand to testify to a conversation with Mrs. Jahn on the night that Schopfer was shot. Her testimony was objected to and Mrs. Jahn was called. She admitted being at Mrs. Wright's on the night in question, but denied saying that Schopfer had shot nimself. Mrs. Wright was then recalled and testified that Mrs. Jahn had said, "Schopfer shot himself."

Court adjourned at 5:30 till morning, as the witnesses in rebuttal were not in court.

HUNDREDS OF BALLOONS WILL CARRY UP TICKETS

Chances for Small Boys to Find Pasteboards for Pain's "Burning of Rome."

Arrangements have been made to send up 500 balloons tomorrow and Saturday nights as a novel means of attracting attention to the opening of Pain's big spectacle, "The Burning of Rome," at Friendship park next Monday night. The balloons are of good size and have what is termed a "surpriser," which emits a series of various colored lights. Attached to each balloon will be two tickets admitting to the best seats during any night of the continuance of the big spectacle. The finding of the balloons after their descent to earth again will thus be made a very interesting one to the small boy. The balloons will be released from Monument hill, Allegheny; Herron hill, Mt. Washington, Highland park, Schenley park and from the Pennsylvania station at Wilkinsburg.

The Members of Pittsburgh lodge, No. 11, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, under whose auspices the big spectacle is being brought to this city, are encouraged at the unusual attention the affair is attracting. Although the sale of seats does not open until this morning, the unusually large number of mail orders received indicates that the advance booking will be most satisfactory. Everything has been placed in readiness at Friendship park for the reception of the big aggregation upon its arrival Sunday morning on its own special train of 30 cars.

Next Monday night will be "Elks'" night and many of the lodges in Pittsburgh and vicinity will attend in a body. A magnificent fire portrait of W. W. Hall, exalted ruler of No. 11, will be presented on Tuesday night. This will be "Empires'" night, when several novelties of local interest will be added.

DEALERS IN TROUBLE.

Anti-Saloon League Files Petitions for Revocation of Liquor License.

Ira L. Berry, acting as an agent of the Anti-Saloon league, through his attorney, John Marron, filed two petitions in quarter sessions court yesterday, asking that two wholesale liquor dealers be denied the right to allow holders of the licenses are violating the law by allowing sales to be made from their wagons and that they make sales at other places than their places of business.

James L. Reilly of 3706 Forbes street, and Fred Tschume of 2316 East street, Allegheny, are the men against whom the petitions are presented. Reilly is charged with delivering goods from wagons that do not bear his license number and that he has a warehouse at 234 Atwood street, where his employes take orders and fill them. Tschume is said to have a warehouse in Ann street, Allegheny, away from the place for which the license was granted. Judge Elliott Rodgers fixed August 15 as a time for the respondents to make a return.

Russia Does Not Need Loan.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 27.—In order to demonstrate that there is no necessity for a new foreign loan at present the government's balance sheet has been shown. It shows free in the treasury over $150,000,000 in gold and in the state banks, $467,500,000, against which only $370,000,000 in paper has been issued, permitting, consequently, a possible additional issue of $247,500,000 in paper.

Hotel Furnishings Are Sold.

The ring of the auctioneer's hammer was heard in the old Red Lion hotel, Sixth street and Duquesne way, yesterday, and by evening the furnishings of the establishment were disposed of. The hostelry, which has been a landmark for 125 years, will be torn down next week.
